Silveira Death Gun Was A Rare Weapon

By STEPHEN COOK

Carlos August Silveira, wealthy Marin County dairy rancher, was murdered by a short or squatting gunman, an inspector of the sheriff's office said today.

Inspector Marco Melovich, heading the investigation of the unexplained slaying of the 41-year-old bachelor rancher Tuesday night, said the bullet which entered his heart must have come from a low angle.

Leads to the killing, which occurred as Silveira stepped from his car in the ranch's four-car garage, were slim but tantalizing.

The murder bullet may have come from a .32-20 Colt revolver, a weapon no longer manufactured and rarely found for sale, said Melovich.

Faint shoe prints, apparently from a pair of sneakers, were found 50 feet from the death scene. Sneakers are not the every-day footwear of dairy ranchers and their hands, according to Melovich.

The inspector said his force of detectives are anxious to recover a car stolen from the ranch the night before.

"We don't know if it's any link to the case, but we'd sure like to see it," he said. "As it stands we've got the possibility of a robbery or burglary motive. He had no known enemies."

Melovich described the car as a two-door Bel Aire hardtop with

Negroes Seek Own Values, Marin Warned

Teacher Declares White Standards Not His Goals

White and black audiences in Marin have been told that the black people do not give a damn for current educational and social standards and are trying to develop on their own.

This position was delivered last night and today in sharply contrasting surroundings. Last night, it was told to about 50 Negro residents of Marin City who gathered in St. Andrew Presbyterian Church. The Marvelous Marin Breakfast Club, a predominantly white group of businessmen, heard it today.

HARD LINE TEACHER

The speaker at both places was James C. Fleming, a San Francisco State College professor who runs a program that prepares teachers to teach in the ghetto. Fleming takes a hard line against "white, middle class standards" because they have alienated Negroes. He believes blacks should get out on their own.

"I am black," he told the Elks. "And black is beautiful."

"You cannot have integration, at least at the present point, because the black man is not complete," he said. "The Black man's educational skills, social standards and economic power are not up to snuff."

'BLACK IS BEAUTIFUL'

He defended black power as a unifying force.

"Black power," he said, "is a swelling in one's guts. Black is beautiful. It says that you do have an identity. Black power means assuming a rightful place in the world."

Negroes reject the educational system, Fleming told the Elks, because it is directed to the whites and perpetuates the "legacy about being kept out."

"Education does not become purposeful for the black man. He gives a damn about your standards. He gives a damn about your social rules. He does your chores and smiles at you, but he's thinking inside that he'd like to cut your throat.

In school, Fleming said, "the black man is not told about Frederick Douglas. He is not told about Malcolm X. He is not told about the 8th or 9th Cavalry which chased Cochise."

Last night's meeting was called by the Marin City Parents' Organizatin and the Economic Opportunity Council agency there to focus on community problems.

The residents, most of them women, expressed stern opposition to plans by the Marin County Redevelopment Agency to provide a convalescent home

542 Americans Die In War During Week

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. Navy pilots broke up another North Vietnamese probing attack against the outer defenses of Khe Sanh, a military spokesman disclosed today. Renewed fighting was reported at two areas along the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) but there were no details.

U.S. spokesman reported 542 Americans were killed and 2,191 wounded in Vietnam last week, most of them in the fighting at Hue and near the DMZ. The figure was one short of the heaviest toll of the war when 543 were killed in the week of Feb. 11-17.

A spokesman said the guerrilla ground probe struck yesterday three miles north of the main Khe Sanh Marine base in the northwestern corner of South Vietnam. Size of the attacking force was not disclosed and there was no report of casualties.

"The enemy was only about 300 meters from our troops when the forward air controller called us in for close air support," said Cmdr. Fred H. Whittemore, 38, of Carson City, Nev. "We began drawing automatic weapons fire on our last run."

The spokesmen said that last week another 2,191 U.S. servicemen suffered wounds in action. Allied troops reported killing 3,849 Communists in the same week.

U.S. forces suffered a record 543 men killed in the week of Feb. 11-17. The spokesmen said that most of the 542 killed last week fell in battles along the North-South Vietnam border and in the former imperial capital of Hue, 40 miles below the border.

U.S. commanders reported Marines of the 3rd and 1st Divisions today battling North Vietnamese invaders near the Leatherneck border bastion of Con Thien.

High-ranking American military sources said the Communists apparently aim at pushing through the border defenses and once more driving against Hue, scene of a 25-day battle last month that was the bloodiest of the war — more than 4,600 communists were slain.

The North Vietnamese have up to 50,000 troops poised in the border area for Hanoi's largest offensive of the war, according to U.S. intelligence. The big Red push could come at anytime, the intelligence reports said.

Also U. S. spokesmen today announced that American troop strength in Vietnam reached a record 507,000 with the arrival of the 27th Marine Regiment—about 6,000 men—to beef up defenses along the northern border. They said Communist troops in South Vietnam number about 333,000.

Nine-Man Training Squad Feared Drowned In Potomac

QUANTICO, Va. (UPI) — Eight Marines and a sailor today were believed drowned in the Potomac River. The body of one of the men was found several miles downstream from this big Marine base.

The men were dumped into the river when their 25-foot canoe capsized a mile from shore during a training exercise yesterday.

Five of the men were veterans of the Vietnam war. The names were not immediately made public pending notification of next of kin.

After many hours of refusing to divulge the nature of the training exercise, officials said the nine men had been undergoing training as physical fitness instructors.

Marine officials said the men were excellent swimmers. They organized a massive search and rescue operation in hopes of finding them alive, contending they were capable of swimming ashore, even though the water temperature was 36 degrees cold and the accident happened a mile from shore.

But after several hours' of fruitless searching today, hope rapidly faded. The report of the recovery of the first body came shortly after noon.

Coast Guard rescue crewmen recovered the Indian-style canvas canoe intact today.

Marine officials said the men had taken the canoe out to distances greater than their ill-fated cross river trip on previous occasions but had never before attempted an actual round trip crossing of the Potomac.

The men were involved in the accident between 4 and 5 p.m. accident yesterday afternoon.

More Showers Seen Tonight

Rain that lightly brushed Marin County and the rest of the Bay Area last night faded into scattered sprinkles today.

Described by the Weather Bureau as "a minor weather front," it packs enough moisture for a prediction of 40 per cent chance of rain tonight and 80 per cent likelihood tomorrow.

Last night's fall measured .13 inch in San Rafael. Other samplings: Sausalito, .28; Tamalpais Valley, .52; Mill Valley .38; Bolinas, .37; Terra Linda .3.

Fate Of 21 Trapped Salt Miners Remains Mystery Following Probe

MORGAN CITY, La. (UPI)—Two rescuers in a makeshift elevator were lowered into the smoky depths of a salt mine today to look for 21 men trapped since Tuesday midnight. They found only deadly carbon monoxide, 80 feet of water, a remote "red glow" and the sound of a diesel engine.

Relatives of the trapped men, gathered at a dock a few miles from the Belle Isle salt mine, were reported "at the breaking point."

The two rescuers came back up and workmen started putting a triangular-shaped top on the "cage" to protect against falling debris.

Then they planned to lower it again and see if the trapped men had fled into one of the maze of channels surrounding the shaft when the hot, smoky fire broke out at the mine entrance yesterday.

There had been no sign of the men since the fire, and no word since one miner telephoned to the surface, just before the lines burned through:

"Fire in the shaft!"

Louisiana Gov. John McKeithen flew to the rescue scene, accessible only by boat or plane.

"It is smoky down there and gloomy and there is carbon monoxide," Clayton F. Tonnemaker, vice president of Cargill, Inc., operator of the mine, said. The sound of the engine gave hope some miners were still alive.

Edward Holeman, 34, one of a team of rescuers from Kentucky brought to the swampy southern Louisiana area near Morgan City to look for the miners, was bruised on his descent into the mine by debris falling down the shaft.

Holeman and his partner in the descent, Gilbert Holmes, said they found some 80 feet of water in the bottom of the mine shaft, but the trapped men could have gotten into a side horizontal shaft. When the two rescuers looked to their left and right off the main shaft, they saw smoke and haze in one direction and a small fire blazing in a fan in the other.

Officials said the diesel engine whose clatter they heard could not have run unattended the 30 hours since the men were trapped by the fire that burned the elevator cables. So somebody would have had to start it up since midnight Tuesday.

"The crucial thing is, where did the men go when the fire broke out?" Tonnemaker said. "How far away were they able to get from the main shaft?"

Big Three Unfurl Nuclear 'Umbrella'

Help For Non-Atom Countries

GENEVA (UPI) — The United States, Britain and the Soviet Union declared today they will give immediate help to any country that feels threatened by nuclear attack or is the victim of such aggression.

They said the nuclear "umbrella" will cover all nations renouncing their own nuclear weapons under the U.S.-Soviet joint draft treaty to stop the spread of atomic arms.

The pledge was presented to the Geneva Disarmament Conference in the form of a resolution to be sent to the United Nations Security Council. Britain joined the United States and Russia in the resolution.

'IMPORTANT' DAY

"There have been few days in the life of this conference as important as this one," said William C. Foster, U.S. disarmament delegate.

While France was not expected to sign either the non-proliferation treaty or join the United States, Russia and Britain in the protection offer, the French will not try to veto the resolution in the U.N., Western officials said.

Under the agreement, all non-nuclear countries signing the treaty could apply to the Security Council for aid if they feel threatened by nuclear attack or nuclear blackmail.

ANSWERS INDIA

The "umbrella" serves to meet demands of such nation as India which feel they would be open to nuclear attack or blackmail by renouncing their own atomic arms under the treaty.

Western spokesmen jointly called the resolution of "historic importance in the nuclear age."

Among other things, the resolution implies that Russia is prepared to aid any country which has renounced its own nuclear weapons and feels threatened by Communist China.

UNUSUAL MOVE

Officials said the resolution is of high significance in that it represents an almost unparalleled degree of cooperation between the United States and the Soviet Union.

For the first time these two nuclear super powers are ready to join forces to protect smaller countries willing to help prevent further spread of nuclear weapons and thus decrease the danger of atomic war.

ASSEMBLY REPORT

Private Medi-Cal Service Proposed

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The state should turn operation of its health care program for the poor over to private groups such as the Kaiser Foundation, Blue Cross or insurance companies, an Assembly committee recommended today.

Additionally, the Assembly Public Health Committee said the state should pay the counties' share of Medi-Cal — an estimated $110.8 million in the fiscal year beginning July 1.

These are the key proposals in the committee's 95-page report on the program whose financing has led to much controversy since it was initiated two years ago this month.

The committee has studied the Medi-Cal system since January 1967. Meanwhile, a joint Senate-Assembly committee is delving into its financial difficulties.

CONTRACT URGED

The state should negotiate with prepaid health care groups for treatment of Medi-Cal patients just as a business firm does for group care for its employees, the committee said.

However, individual recipients should still have the option — required under federal law — to go to any private doctor as they do under the present Medi-Cal setup, the report said.

However, if such prepaid group practice organizations continue to provide the same care at lower cost than private doctors, "there would then be reason and pressure to require use of only low-cost plans," it added.

State takeover of Medi-Cal payments made by the 58 counties would be to provide local tax relief as well as eliminate local accounting delays and inadequacies which are blamed for Medi-Cal fiscal problems.

HOSPITAL CUTOFF

The committee's plan for the 1968-69 fiscal year is to have the state pick up the counties' estimated $110.8 million Medi-Cal tab, but discontinue certain aid to county hospitals projected at $60.5 million. This would leave $50.3 million local tax relief.

Gov. Ronald Reagan's budget allocates $341.5 million to Medi-Cal for the coming fiscal year. The federal government would match the total of the state and county costs.

The committee also suggested using on a limited, experimental basis, a "co-payment" program of having the recipient pay part of the cost of each visit to the doctor.

"The purpose of co-payment for physician visits should be to discourage repeated unnecessary visits . . ."

However, the committee warned that too high a patient charge would discourage the poor from getting early care to prevent a more serious and costly illness.

In a related issue, the legislators urged expansion of the existing program to prevent un-

Rescued from ocean

Eight-Hour Hunt Finds Jet Fliers

Two Marin County men, from the 84th Fighter Interceptor Squadron at Hamilton Air Force Base were resuced last night from the ocean off the Northern California coast, after more than eight hours in the chill sea.

Rescued were Capt. John H. Carpenter, 31-year-old pilot, of 35 Gertrude Lane, Novato, and Capt. Joseph J. Gruchacz, 28, radarman, of 255 Bolling Drive on the base.

Their F101 Voodoo jet fighter developed control trouble at 49,000 feet while on a training intercept mission off the coast, base officials reported. When he still could not control the plane at 15,000 feet, Carpenter ordered the bail-out, according to base officials.

The plane was being monitored by radar, so searchers knew that it went into the sea at 5 p.m. about 20 to 30 miles southwest of Eureka.

Both ejection seats of the plane were equipped with inflatable life rafts, beeper radios and strobe lights.

The Coast Guard cutter Point Ledge was dispatched from Fort Bragg, the cutter Resolute from San Francisco, an amphibian

Cranston May Get Into Senate Race

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Former State Controller Alan Cranston emerged from a private talk with Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh today and said he was "leaning toward" entering the Democratic U.S. Senate primary.

Cranston, defeated in the 1966 Republican landslide, flew here to meet with Unruh after the speaker announced yesterday he will not run for the Senate.

200 Negro Youths Storm Legislature

COLUMBIA, S.C. (UPI)—Two hundred Negro youths, protesting the slaying of three students at Orangeburg a month ago, stormed into the South Carolina capitol today, disrupting the Legislature and demanding an audience with the governor.

Police arrested at least six of the students and said they would be charged with disturbing the peace. The Senate adjourned in the midst of a milk price filibuster and the House quickly followed suit.

Prague Demanding General's Return

COMBINED AP & UPI

VIENNA— Czechoslovakia announced today it is demanding the extradition of a Czech general who has defected to the United States, under criminal law.

"Maj. Gen. Jan Sejna is wanted in Czechoslovakia for offenses concerning property and misuse of authority of a public official," the Czech New Agency said.

No one was saying where General Sejna, top political officer in Communist Czechoslovakia's army, was staying, but if past practice was any guide he was probably at a safe location in nearby Maryland or Virginia.

There was no immediate indication whether the Czech Embassy here would demand a face-to-face meeting with Sejna. In other such cases, U.S. authorities have usually acceded to one closely guarded confrontation at the State Department.

Sejna's flight late last month, disclosed by the State Department yesterday, was reported to be causing "considerable uneasiness" in ruling circles in Prague, according to the Yugoslav news agency Tanjug.

Besides having information about Czech defenses, Sejna presumably would know the plans of the Warsaw Pact, the Soviet bloc equivalent of NATO.

Since Sejna's disappearance Feb. 25 he has been accused in the Czech press of speculating in seed grain in a $43,000 farm cooperative fraud and of misappropriating nearly $8,000 in state funds.

It seemed more likely, however, that the Communist Party shakeup which led to the sidelining of Czech President Antonin Novotny was a major factor. As party boss in the army Sejna would have worked closely with the Novotny faction.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Folksinger Asks $11 Million

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Jimmy Rodgers, the folksinger who suffered critical head injuries after his car was stopped by a police officer, has filed an $11 million personal damage claim against the City of Los Angeles.

Rodgers, 33, was found unconscious in his parked car last Dec. 1. An investigation later determined he had been stopped by an off duty policeman for allegedly driving erratically.

Rodgers

The police department said Rodgers apparently slipped and fell when he got out of his car after pulling off the San Diego Freeway at the request of police officer Michael Duffy.

In the claim filed yesterday, however, Rodgers said he was "thrown or caused to fall to the pavement by a police officer or officers."

Band Leader Tony Pastor Stricken

DAYTON, Ohio (UPI) — Band leader Tony Pastor who gave the world "Sunny Side of the Street," "Oh, Marie," and "Them There Eyes," was hospitalized in serious condition today after suffering an apparent stroke.

Pastor

Pastor, 58, was in the first week of a two-week engagement here. He was stricken yesterday in his suite at the Sheraton-Dayton Hotel.

A big band leader for 19 years, Pastor was leading a five-piece orchestra during the Dayton performances.

Tests Delayed

TOULOUSE, France (UPI)— The first test flight of the Franco-Brtish supersonic transport Concorde has been postponed until at least October because of wiring problems, Sud Aviation Co. sources said today. The Cocorde originally was to have flown for the first time Feb. 28.

Damage Costs

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — The Navy has come up with $6,922 for damage one of its ships did a Washington highway. The destroyer tender Sperry rammed the highway, which runs along the Columbia River, and removed a 20-foot chunk of road last June.

AN ANGRY AMERICAN

Senators Hear Blast At Viet Corruption

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Corruption has infected the Vietnamese government from top to bottom and is unnecessarily prolonging the war, a high-ranking U.S. official in Saigon has told a Senate subcommittee.

In a bitterly worded report, the official, who was not identified, urged the Johnson Administration to stop treating official corruption in the Saigon government as a "delicate, unmentionable subject" and take steps to end it.

The official said corruption in South Vietnam is "an ever present fact of life, permeating all echelons of government and society, corroding the vitality of this nation, eroding the framework of this government and unnecessarily prolonging the war."

HEARINGS PLANNED

As a result of the report, written last November by the head of an American team investigating corruption in Vietnam, the Senate Foreign Aid Expenditures subcommittee announced yesterday it would hold hearings later this year on the subject.

In a sharp attack on Washington's failure to meet the corruption, the 14-page report said American authorities "must stop burying our heads in sand like ostriches whenever we come face to face with the problem."

HURTS IMAGE

Not only is this lack of action prolonging the war, the official said, the continued existence of the problem is "probably the single most important reason for the steady erosion of American public confidence and support for our overall effort in Vietnam.

"The diversion of such a great percentage of total government effort to lining individual pockets, instead of the devotion of all energies to fighting the war and building the nation, is aggravating this war and is causing fighting men, American as well as Vietnamese, to suffer unnecessary death at the very time this is being written and read."

The official recommended establishment of an antigraft office within the U.S. Mission in Vietnam, warning, "Something can be done, but must be done fast before the whole country and our efforts on its behalf go down the drain."

He said "the politicians, the grafters and all the generally skummy people whose toes would be stepped on will make a great outcry," but the little people, who are being victimized, would applaud the action.

He also recommended higher salaries for government officials so they would not have to steal "to secure a real living wage."

Student Unrest Flares In Schools

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Hundreds of students boycotted classes at four high schools in minority areas yesterday to stage protest demonstrations. Students at one school hurled objects at passing automobiles.

Police called a tactical alert at Roosevelt High School where about 400 students began throwing rocks and bottles at motorists. One police car was pelted with eggs.

Roosevelt is a predominantly Mexican-American school in East Los Angeles. Student unrest also occurred at Jefferson High School, with a virtually all-Negro student body, and at Garfield and Lincoln, where Mexican-Americans are in the majority.

Joe Martin, Former Power In Congress, Dies At 83

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (UPI)-- Joseph W. Martin, a homespun Yankee who used his four years as House Speaker to mold unity into a disparate Republican Party, died last night. He was 83.

Martin who rose from a newsboy to publisher of his own newspaper to the highest position in the House of Representatives, was dead on arrival at a hospital here after collapsing at the home of relatives. Cause of death was not immediately known.

Martin served 42 years in the House, starting in 1925. His political career ended dramatically when, in a Massachusetts Republican primary in 1966, he lost his party's nomination to Mrs. Margaret Heckler.

Martin was speaker from 1946-1948 and from 1952-1954, and was leader of House Republicans from 1939 to 1959.

But at a secret GOP caucus Jan. 6, 1959, his fellow Republicans voted 74-70 to replace him with the more youthful Charles Halleck of Indiana. The word was that the GOP lawmakers felt Martin was too close to Speaker Sam Rayburn and sometimes sacrificed party postures for the sake of harmony on the House floor of Congress.

JOSEPH W. MARTIN
Healed GOP splits

Martin was a cajoler, not a dictator.

Because of his popularity and power Martin was considered a presidential dark horse in 1948.

Friends said such a possibility "frightened him."

Born in North Andover, Mass., Nov. 3, 1884, Martin began working at 5 as a newsboy, the son of a Scottish blacksmith who died early in Joe's life. His mother, Catherine, was left with seven children. Martin never married.

Martin loved newspapers. He turned down a scholarship to Dartmouth to become a reporter and when the paper folded, he went to work for the Providence R.I. Journal.

The chance came in 1906 to buy the North Attleboro Chronicle and in 1906 he poured his life savings of $1,000 into the venture. Friends rallied behind him and Martin became publisher of the Chronicle, a post he held at his death.

His brother, Albert, is currently editor of the paper. Martin also leaves another brother and a sister.

LBJ Urges 'Do What You Can' On Antiriot Recommendations

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Johnson has broken his public silence on the sweeping recommendations made by his antiriot commission with a request to American businessmen "to do what you can" to help improve the lot of big city ghetto-dwellers.

"I don't ask you to embrace every recommendation they made, but I do ask you to do what you can," Johnson told a group of visiting bankers at the White House yesterday.

At the same time, a top Administration official was telling Congress that it was "highly improbable" that housing recommendations of the commission could be carried out.

Secretary Robert C. Weaver of the Housing and Urban Development Department told a Senate committee that the commission suggested twice as big an increase in federal housing as the administration has proposed, and might overtax the construction industry capacity.

Weaver's statement brought a sharp rejoinder from Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., a member of the antiriot panel: "We didn't recommend any pie in the sky. These goals are not only possible, they are needed."

Weaver's and Johnson's statements were the first official administration comments on the riot panel's report.

Viet War Brutality Criticized

GENEVA (UPI)—The International Commission of Jurists today condemned increasing brutality in Vietnam.

"The unprecedented scale of massacres in Indonesia and the widespread slaughter in Nigeria have aroused a profound sense of shame and indignation throughout the world," it said.

"But the present situation in Vietnam, where a steady escalation of brutality is taking place, is the most striking and most distressing example," a commission statement declared.

BACKS RED CROSS

The commission, which has United Nations consultative status and whose secretary general, Sean MacBride, is the former Irish foreign minister, supported the International Red Cross protest in February against summary executions and torture of prisoners in Vietnam.

"Acts of barbarity have never served the cause of civilization," the jurists said.

"The committing of atrocities by one side to a conflict can neither justify nor excuse the atrocities of the other."

The jurists referred specifically to the shooting of a Viet Cong prisoner by a South Vietnamese government official which was photographed and seen around the world.

APPEAL IGNORED

The Red Cross appeal to protect civilians "does not appear to have received the attention which it deserves from governments," the jurists said.

The commission said although the obligation under the Geneva War Conventions to respect humanitarian rules falls primarily on the parties to the Vietnam war, "it also binds all other governments to do everything in their power to ensure their respect in all circumstances."

THE SPROUTS OF PLANTS TELL A TALE

It was strange, Robert Burns of Mill Valley thought, when the hippie tenants he had evicted from 36 Mountain View Avenue came back the next day and walked around the yard peering closely at the ground.

Burns investigated and found what the hippies didn't — six funny-looking little plants sprouting in the yard.

He called police, who confirmed his suspicions. They dug up the six marijuana plants and took them to the police station where they had their picture taken before being disposed of.

Red Newsmen Hint Pueblo Possibility

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UPI)—Communist newsmen in this Korean truce village hinted today the 82 crewmen of the U.S. intelligence ship Pueblo will be released if President Johnson admits the ship violated North Korean waters and apologizes.

The North Korean newsmen were here for the 264th meeting of the Korean Military Armistice Commission.

"Why does Johnson not do so?" a spokesman said. "The Pueblo was engaged in espionage activities against us. If Johnson admits it and makes due apologies, the crew could be returned."

The 82 crewmen recently were reported to have sent a letter to the President making the same request. Authorities were studying it in Washington to see if it were genuine.

When asked if North Korea would punish the Pueblo crew if the United States does not comply with a request for an apology, the Communist newsmen could not give a clearcut answer. Instead they reported the Communist demand for an apology.

Sabotage Plan On The Draft

NEW YORK (UPI)—A plan for the nationwide sabotage of Selective Service offices and harassment of their employees has been mailed to anti-Vietnam War organizations throughout the country, federal officials confirmed today.

The anonymous, 12-page mimeographed pamphlet contains details on how to make incendiary bombs, Molotov cocktails and other devices.

Authorities said, however, there is no evidence of any activity to implement the plan. Although they feel it was inspired by a fringe element, they nevertheless have warned state and local police and Selective Service offices of its existence.

FROM CANADA

Justice Department officials said the plan turned up several weeks ago. Its origin was not disclosed, but it is believed to have been prepared in Toronto where some United States youths have sought refuge from the draft.

The pamphlet describes its contents on the first page as "an argument for sabotage as the next logical step toward obstruction and disruption of the U.S. war machine."

The document says demonstrations at draft centers the past few years were useful only as "organizing" tools and that they proved ineffective in impeding the Selective Service system.

SEVERAL HUNDRED

Just how many pamphlets were distributed in the United States could not be accurately determined, although the pamphlet itself indicates several hundred. Three leaders of antiwar groups in New York City received the pamphlet through the mails in plain envelopes. None said they took it seriously.

The three leaders, Dave Dellinger of the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam; Linda Morris of the Student Mobilization Committee, and Mrs. Norma Becker, coordinator of the Fifth Avenue Peace Parade Committee, issued this joint statement:

"This sudden exposure of a 'nationwide plot' based on the circulation of an anonymous mimeographed brochure is an insult to the millions of Americans who passionately seek an end to the war in Vietnam. The anti-war movement is striving to end violence —not to further it."

Rhodesians Unimpressed By Protests On Hangings

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (UPI)—Prime Minister Ian Smith's Rhodesian regime remained unmoved today by British threats and world protests over the hangings of three Africans who had won the Queen's mercy.

The breakaway government's only public comment on the hangings was to accuse Britain of making political use of the royal reprieve and thereby "irresponsibly and cruelly" raising false hopes in the doomed men.

The Africans were executed yesterday. Two, James Mlambo and Victor Dhlamini, were convicted of the fire bomb murder of a white motorist and the third, Duly Shadrack, was found guilty of killing an African tribal chief. The crimes were committed before Nov. 11, 1965, when Smith defied Britain and declared Rhodesia independent.

In London the British cabinet faced a decision on what action to take against the regime, which it still considers illegal. The strongest move expected would be a charge of murder against Smith, the hangman and other officials.

The charge, however, would be as unenforceable as Britain's claims to the power of government in Rhodesia.

Driver To Jail

Stanley John Huseman, 34, of San Francisco, was sentenced to five days in jail and fined $289 in Marin Municipal Court yesterday for driving while drunk Feb. 29 on Highway 101. He had a prior conviction for the same offense.

Egyptian Fire Drives Back Israeli Plane At Suez City

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

An Israeli plane attempted to fly over Suez City today but was driven back by Egyptian antiaircraft fire, Suez authorities reported.

The announcement said the plane flew in from the Sinai Desert at 12:45 p.m. but withdrew when the Suez City defenders fired three rounds of antiaircraft fire.

It was Suez City where Israeli planes knocked out an estimated 75 per cent of Egypt's oil refining capacity last fall.

In another incident indicative of the Middle East unrest since the June War, Israeli security officials last night dynamited the home of an el Fatah terrorist leader in Jerusalem. It was the first time retaliation against sabotage was taken in Jerusalem.

Israeli officials said Kamal Nimmer, an engineer, was arrested at home Sunday. They said Nimmer and another El Fatah leader, William Najiz, said they took part in the killing of a watchman last week at a Ghosh supply depot.

Thirty helmeted policemen, armed with shotguns and nightsticks, were sent to the area to quell the disorder. Police said no one was injured.

The youths dispersed shortly after police arrived.

Police estimated damage to stores at $1,800.

Nation's Capital Hit By Teacher Walkout

WASHINGTON (AP) — Public schools in the District of Columbia were ordered closed today because of a teachers walkout as the nation's capital became the latest city to feel the effects of the current wave of teacher unrest.

Elsewhere strikes continued in Florida and Pittsburgh, Pa., while teachers in Oklahoma and Manchester, N.H., prepared to bring sanctions against that state and city after holding successful one-day holidays.

CLOSE ORDER

Schools Supt. William R. Manning said he ordered the Washington schools closed for today only because almost half the the system's 7,000 teachers requested leave for the day.

The teachers, members of the Washington teachers' union, held a public demonstration and visited Capital Hill to urge Congress to approve a pending bill by Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., that would raise starting salaries from the $5,880 to $7,000.

Some parents in Pittsburgh filed court suit to have schools closed on the ground they have been made unsafe by the strike by 1,000 of the city's 3,000 teachers.

41 ARRESTED

Forty-one of the striking teachers were arrested and fined $25 each yesterday for picketing in violation of a court order.

The Pittsburgh Federation of Teachers struck last Thursday in a demand for a collective bargaining election—an election which the school board contends it cannot legally sanction.

In Florida an official of the huge Dade County Classroom Teachers Association told a meeting of 3,500 Miami teachers that he believed the 13-day-old walkout would be settled tomorrow.

UNTIL MIDNIGHT

Gov. Claude Kirk has until midnight to act on a $329 million education spending and taxing package or to allow it to become law without his signature.

Oklahoma's 27,000 teachers, prepared to bring national sanctions against the state for the second time in four years.

Gov. Dewey Bartlett and legislative leaders urged 16,000 teachers who attended the meeting yesterday to accept a compromise school financing plan now in the legislature.

But teachers labeled "inadequate" the plan to provide a $1,300 salary increase over three years. Average teacher salary is $6,180 annually.

More than 500 of Manchester' 600 teachers took part in a one-day walkout yesterday. They return to the classroom today but voted sanctions to prevent recruitment of new teachers in their demand for higher pay.

white over tan coloring. The license number of the auto, registered to ranch hand Albert Bignami, is DNS389, he said.

WEAPON MISSING

A party of 12 deputies searched the ranch area near Marinwood yesterday for the murder weapon. No gun was found, according to Melovich.

A check by the Silveira family, one of Marin's oldest and wealthiest ranching clans, disclosed nothing stolen from the garage or ranch house the night of the murder, he said.

Silveira left the ranch at 8 p.m. the night of the murder to collect the family's mail at the old San Rafael post office.

He was next seen by a ranch hand at 9 p.m., driving in the area of the milking barn on his nightly check, Melovich said.

Shortly thereafter, he must have returned to the ranch house's garage. He parked his 1957 Chevrolet inside and stepped from the car, clutching a handful of mail.

BODY DISCOVERED

Bignami found him at 11:30 p.m., sprawled on the ground, his body one-third of the way through the garage entrance.

A stream of 21 pieces of mail were strewn on the ground, from the rancher's lifeless body back to the door of the car, according to Melovich.

An autopsy report stated that a bullet entered his body between the fifth and sixth ribs and proceeded to the aorta, right next to the heart, on a sharp, upward angle.

"The man doing the shooting would have had to be crouched or built so that he would shoot from a low angle," said Melovich.

The inspector said he has teams of inspectors interviewing ranch hands, the family and their friends and residents at the nearby St. Vincent's School for Boys.

'QUIET, SHY MAN'

Anthony Silveira of Marinwood stood outside the main ranch house yesterday and somberly pondered the shooting of his brother.

"He was a very quiet, very shy man," he said. "I can't imagine anybody being angry with him."

His mother, Mary E. Silveira, who lived in the main house with her son, was under a doctor's care yesterday.

needed payments, fraud and abuse.

"The committee has been presented with enough information to be convinced that there are certain persons who have abused the program and that increased efforts must be taken to prevent such abuse," the report said.

A new system for paying physicians was proposed by the assemblymen.

At present, physicians are paid their "usual and customary" fees while all other providers, such as hospitals and nursing homes, are paid on the basis of a maximum fee schedule.

"The inequity of such a system is obvious," the report said.

In its place, the committee proposed paying all providers — including institutions — "on the basis of usual, customary or reasonable charges, whichever is less."

"Usual" is defined as what the professional regularly charges and "customary" as the community-wide normal fee. "The best criteria for resonableness is the amount allowed by private health prepayment and insurance plans for the same services," the report said. "These plans . . . have developed considerable expertise in determining what is reasonable."

The committee also recommended:

Private consultants be hired to develop an adequate Medi-Cal data system.

The legislature determine what type of services are to be provided and who is eligible, while the Medi-Cal administrator would be able to make minor program adjustments.

A recipient should have to get permission from the state for elective medical treatment.

Nurses Support Patient Policy

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The California Nurses Association today announced its support of Gov. Ronald Reagan's proposals to improve state hospital care for mentally ill and retarded patients.

In a letter to the governor, Helen Hancock, president of the 29,000-member CNA, said:

"The California Nurses Association stands ready to assist in ...the constructive and forward looking program which has been adopted."

Greenbrae Resident Reports $100 Robbery Outside Ark

Lamar O. Wyatt, 52, of Greenbrae, was robbed of $100 by three men who grabbed him as he left the Arkat Gate 6, outside Sausalito early yesterday, Marin Sheriff's deputies said today.

Wyatt, of 355 Vista Grande, told officers he was preparing to get in his car in the Ark parking lot when a Negro man grabbed him by the coat and spun him around.

Wyatt pushed the man away but two others grabbed him and held him against the car while the original assailant took his wallet, glasses and keys from his pocket, deputies said.

Deputies in Marin City also reported another story of robbery yesterday.

Martin E. Ingraham of Fairfax and his father, Vern C. Ingraham of San Anselmo, were going with a Marin City man named Bob Monday night to buy a color television set which Bob promised would sell for $300.

As they climbed some steps at the rear of 69 Cole Drive, two men stepped from the shadows and pointed a sawed-off shotgun. Martin Ingraham ran and his father and Bob were each relieved their wallet, officers said.

Ingraham said he lost only credit cards, as he had intended to pay for the television by check. Deputies are still looking for Bob, whom, Martin said, he met in a Fairfax bar. He disappeared shortly after the robbery, according to officers.

LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

Name Kinfolk In Your Will

When you write your will, you should mention your children and your husband or wife whether you plan to give them anything or not.

To do this ends any claim that you left these heirs out unintentionally.

You should say that such relatives were in your mind when you made the will.

OTHERWISE, especially when a person marries or has children after writing his will, the court may assume that he forgot them, and they may share in his estate.

Lacking a will, surviving husbands or wives inherit all the community property, not merely the half they have during their lifetimes. If the deceased leaves "separate" property, his children will share in some of that separate property where there is no will.

Failure to mention children or spouse in the will does not always mean that they will not share, but it is wise to mention them. One only has to show the court that they were left out on purpose. Thus each spouse might have had an estate before marraige and had agreed between them not to claim any part of the other's estate. They may have drawn up a marriage contract, or there may be other evidence that the omission in the will was made on purpose.

AS TO the children, the court may hear evidence that the testator took care of them in some other settlement or "advancement" before death. The court requires strong evidence of such an arrangement.

Thus, in one case a mother wrote a "codicil" (an amendment) to her will. In it she said that all loans or gifts to her children before or after the date of that codicil were "advances to be deducted from the borrower or recipients' share of the estate." The court upheld the codicil.

OTHER gifts may be "adeemed." Suppose a testator makes a specific gift of something — an old necklace, or a certain house — but the gift is no longer in the estate by the time the testator dies. It could have been destroyed, stolen, or sold after he wrote the will. His death "extinguishes" such a gift unless the proceeds from the property can be easily traced.

Hungarian Ballet Dancer Defects, Magazine Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — Hungarian ballet dancer Ivan Nagy has defected to the United States, according to the Saturday Review.

Walter Terry, dance critic for the Saturday Review, made the disclosure in the March 16 issue of the magazine.

Terry quotes Nagy, 24, as saying, "I did not defect for political reasons but because the best opportunities for my career are in America."

Nagy apparently decided to defect after coming to Washington, D.C., at the invitation of Frederic Franklin, director of the National Ballet, to appear as a guest dancer. The exact date Nagy came to the United States or the date he defected was not mentioned in the article.

plane from San Francisco, a C121 from the 41st Aerospace Rescue and Recovery Squadron at Hamilton and a Coast Guard helicopter from the Arcata airport.

At 8:15 p.m., the guard helicopter located Captain Carpenter. He was taken to St. Joseph's hospital in Eureka with no apparent injuries, but is being held there for physical examination, Hamilton officials reported.

The rough seas, with waves running five to 19 feet igh, and rainy weather hampered the search, but 12:30 a.m. today the Coast Guard cutter Point Ledge picked up the beep of Captain Gruchacz radio. The cutter located and picked him up at 2:25 a.m. He was taken to a Fort Bragg hospital where he was reported suffering from exposure, base officials said.

An unconfirmed report that there was a fire in the cockpit came from the Humbolt County area, and Hamilton officials are investigating that possiblity.

The cause of the crash will be investigated by a board of Air Force officers, said base officials.

near the school site. Donald O. Stutsman, executive director of the agency, said the 182-bed hospital would attract business and jobs and create operating revenue for the community services district.

Audience members felt a shopping center was Marin City's most pressing need.

Fleming spoke bitterly against the hospital plan, which will be given a public hearing April 2 in the First Missionary Baptist Church.

"They tell you they are going to build a convalescent hospital and more apartments," he said. "You can listen to that gobbledygook if you want. You can say to them, 'Why you doing this and why you doing that?' but you should be asking 'Why are WE to do this?'

'YOUR COMMUNITY'

"This is your commnity. It should be run by black people."

Fleming said he favored a vocational training center in Marin Center with jobs waiting in a Nergo-run shopping and business center. He said he would like to see a bank, post office and "my dream, a Negro restaurant," opened in Marin City.

Lanny Berry, a special assistant in the Tamalpais High School District, told the group of plans to help Marin City through a federally financed program called "Operation Breakthrough."

He ran into some opposition when several elderly women objected that the residents were not consulted before the program was drawn, but Fleming defended him to the applause of younger persons in the audience.

Barry said he had information which showed black pupils were ill-prepared to enter high school. He hoped more Negro teachers and counselors could be hired.

Earlier last night, in a show of unity, Fleming called a meeting of representatives of the Economic Opportunity Council, Marin County Human Rights Commission, community services district and youth groups to air grievances over duplication of effort and to eliminate a lack of communication among themselves.

Fleming said further meetings would be held toward forming a Black Professionals Organization.

Rain Spout Hookups Worry Sewer Board

Ross Valley Sanitary District directors last night asked manager Ralph C. Noah to study what can be done to check homes with rain spouts illegally hooked into sewer lines.

The infiltration of huge amounts of rain water during storms, unless stopped, may require costly new trunk lines, reported director A. N. Nipper. A new line from San Anselmo to the Greenbrae pumping plant would cost over $1 million, he said, "and we hope to prevent this necessity by stopping rain water from being sent into our lines."

Butcher Charged With Murder Of His Wife

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A butcher was charged witn murder today in the death of his wife, whose mummified body was found last week in a deserted meat packing plant he formerly operated.

Carl Gustave Wilson, 59, San Francisco, was arrested after police identified the body from fingerprints as that of Mrs. Katherine Wilson, 44, who was reported missing by relatives May 24, 1964.

Her brother, Thomas Green of San Mateo, who filed the report, said he last saw her in November 1963. At that time, the couple was living in an apartment behind the packing plant.

The body was found after Wilson sold the plant.

Innocent Plea On Marijuana

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) —A youthful socialite has pleaded innocent to a charge of possessing marijuana.

Bruce Carlisle, 19, appeared yesterday before Municipal Court Judge Harry Low, who set April 17 for a preliminary hearing.

Police said they found a kilo of marijuana in Carlisle's car while investigating the theft of $80,000 in jewels from the family home.

ARREST COMES UNSTUCK

No Prosecution For Glue Sniffing Spree

You can get as bombed on glue fumes as you wish to, so long as you do it in the privacy of your home, the Marin County District Attorney's office said today in refusing to press charges against a young man arrested in his San Rafael hotel room.

Police went to the hotel yesterday when the manager telephoned that the 21-year-old guest had been laughing and talking loudly as if he were carrying on a conversation with someone else in the room. He had his radio on loud, and the other guests were complaining, the manager said.

Patrolman Donal Merkley said he went to the young man's room and talked with him for about five minutes. The young man kept saying "I'm feeling fine, fine." He laughed from time to time, said Patrolman Merkley.

The fumes were so strong in the room that Patrolman Merkley himself "experienced a distinct euphoria," he reported. The police confiscated 28 unopened tubes of glue, and 15 paper bags into which opened tubes of glue had been poured, they said. There were stacks of model car and airplane kits in the room, Merkley said.

Police took the young man to the county jail and booked him on suspicion of being "totally intoxicated by the glue," said Patrolman Merkley.

But today, Assistant District Attorney Ralph Thomas reported there would be no prosecution of the young man. "There is nothing in the law that says you can't get as bombed on glue as you want to, so long as you do it in the privacy of your own home," said Thomas.

Thieves Abandon Getaway Car

Sausalito police recovered a stolen car yesterday which apparently had been used by burglars since it was taken in San Francisco four months ago.

Neighbors at 3:30 p.m., reported a possible burglary in progress at 61 Marion Avenue and said two well-dressed men ran from the scene. Police found the car, a 1961 Chevrolet registered to Katherine Cabras of San Francisco, parked in the driveway.

In the car were a portable television set and two jewelry cases. One case was found to belong to George N. Neumann of 726 Sequoia Valley Road, Mill Valley, but the other loot has not been traced.

Police checked the neighborhood and found no houses had been entered.

No-Confidence Vote Is Urged

SAIGON (UPI) — Forty-five members of the House of Representatives today urged a no-confidence vote in the government of Prime Minister Nguyen Van Loc.

A petition from the dissidents said Loc's government had proved to be "imcapable during the recent Communist attacks in the cities."

The petition is expected to be debated by the full house later.

No More Closings For Haight Street

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Hippies who used Haight Street for dance-ins, love-ins and walk-ins will have to stroll to nearby Golden Gate Park next Sunday if they want a traffic-free playground.

Mayor Joseph L. Alioto, who had blocked the street to traffic for the past two Sundays, said yesterday he was returning jurisdiction for closing the street to the board of supervisors.

Duties Keeping LBJ Off Ballot?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson will enter no presidential primaries because he wants to devote full time to seeking peace in Vietnam and in the nation's cities, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said today.

As a result, Mansfield said, antiwar Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., is assured of almost 100 first-ballot votes for the Democratic presidential nomination —72 in Massachusetts and 20-odd in his home state.

Armed Services Consider Universal Mumps Shots

By SCIENCE SERVICE

WASHINGTON — In order to prevent possible sterilization of their young volunteers and draftees, the armed services are considering injecting mumps vaccine into all the teen-agers who arrive in boot camp without history of the disease.

Mumps, like measles, is usually regarded as a minor illness of childhood. But in a small percentage of children and a larger proportion of adults, complications may impair the brain, the eyes, the heart and the reproductive organs.

Young men of induction age who have not had the disease as children are among those liable to possible infection of the reproductive organs. Inflammation of the testes, called orchitis, can lead to sterility.

Since the licensing of the first live-virus vaccine against mumps in this country last month, the three armed services have been considering its use, but have not yet decided exactly how to approach it.

(Russia, on the other hand, has had a live-virus vaccine available since 1962; it gives immunity for only a few years.)

One consideration in the services is the declining rate of epidemics, leading medical officers to believe the disease is tending to affect patients earlier in life. For example, during World War I, a 1918 study found a ratio of more than 75 cases of mumps per 1,000 men inducted. By World War II, the rate had fallen to five men per thousand, and in 1967 it had fallen to less than one per thousand per year. Another problem is whether young men can remember having had mumps or not.

The mumps virus was first discovered in 1934, and killed virus vaccines have been in use for a number of years, but the protection they provide is temporary.

Killed virus vaccines are not generally recommended for children because they provide protection during a time of life when the effects of the disease are usually mild. Because mumps is more dangerous for adults, short-term immunity during childhood accomplishes little.

The new live weakened mumps virus vaccine was developed by Drs. Eugene Buynak and Maurice R. Hilleman of the Merck Sharp & Dohme Research Laboratories. The particular strain used is the Jeryl Lynn (B level) strain, named after the daughter of Dr. Hilleman from whom the virus was initially recovered.

The new strain was used in field trials in which the vaccine was given to more than 15,000 persons. Of these, 6,500 children and adults were susceptible because they had never had mumps, and 95 per cent of these developed protective antibodies against the disease.

The Division of Biologic Standards of the National Institutes of Health made an 18-month study of the vaccine's safety and potency, the basis for its licensing by the Public Health Service.

Even with the new vaccine, however, it is not known yet how much long-term immunity will be conferred. With the measles vaccine, researchers had four years to check its efficacy, and with the polio vac- they have had five years.

Dope Roundup Pleas Entered

Three men arrested in the recent Marin County narcotics roundup entered pleas yesterday in Marin Municipal Court.

Patrick Courtney, 40, of Gate 5, Sausalito, denied a charge that he sold more than a kilo of marijuana to an agent of the county drug abuse bureau. Preliminary hearing on the charge was set for April 9.

Robert Gerard, 26, of 90 Princess Street, Sausalito, pleaded innocent ot charges of possessing and selling marijuana in Sausalito Feb. 23. His hearing was set for March 22.

Steven Ward Weaver, 18, of Forest Knolls, pleaded innocent to charges of selling marijuana and dangerous drugs. His hearing was scheduled for April 9.

Transit Board Wants 'Interim' Commute Plan Within 60 Days

Marin Transit District directors, almost four years after the district was approved by voters, last night voted 6-1 to create a new committee to prepare within 60 days "an interim transit program."

The board avoided choosing between buses or ferries. Instead, it agreed the new committee's program, should include "substantial improvement of a bus system" and cooperation with San Francisco in a feasibility study of ferries.

STORER OPPOSED

The board's prime supporter of ferries, however, director Thomas T. Storer, voted against setting up the "technical transit task force" because the motion mentioned "purchase of new buses." Until a ferry study is made, he argued, there will be too little information available to know if new buses should be bought.

The new committee was proposed by the Marin Council for Civic Affairs, but was only slightly recognizable after each director made changes in it.

The task force would be formed by the transit district, City and County of San Francisco and the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District. It would be an extension of the technical committee now serving the Tri-Partite Transportation Committee set up by the three governmental units.

KASHIN AT HELM

The proposal, which still needs the approval of San Francisco and bridge district officials, would include planning officers from San Francisco and Marin and representatives from Sonoma County and the State Division of Highways.

Seymour Kashin, manager of the Marin Transit District, would head the task force.

The task force's program also is to include expansion of existing commute ferry operations from Tiburon to other areas and drawing of a proposal for an application for a federal grant "utilizing new technologies."

After its work is completed, the task force would report back to the three governmental units.

Agreeing that cooperation among the three is what is needed now, and not dissolution of the bridge district, directors voted unanimously to oppose legislation to create a Golden Gate Authority to take over all bridges, ports and airports in the Bay Area.

McCARTHY BILL

Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael, proposed the authority in 1959 and 1961, and this week revived it again. Ferry or bus systems "would be short-term programs at best and would sharply reduce much needed financial resources," McCarthy said Tuesday.

McCarthy did not indicate what needs he had in mind, but he recently said he will push again for his proposed second crossing to the Tiburon Peninsula.

Marin Transit District directors also:

ENGINEER —Again deferred action on Kashin's request for a projects engineer to assist him.

BRIDGE BOARD — Received but took no action on a proposal by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, that some bridge district directors be elected officials appointed by the boards of supervisors in the six-county district.

GREYHOUND — Received without comment a proposal by the Marin Property Owners Association that the transit district negotiate with Greyhound Bus Lines to improve bus service.

Civic Foundation To Buy Seedlings

The Novato Civic Foundation Committe Tuesday instructed treasurer Peter Ferrarese to try to buy more seedling trees for its nursery at Stafford Dam.

He is to try to get seedling coast redwoods, sugar pines, Australian eucalyptus and Jefry pines. These will be set out in the nursery for future transplanting in parks, Ferrarese said.

The board agreed to help the San Marin Improvement Association landscape the grounds at the new San Ramon Elementary School. The landscaping will be a joint venture between the two organizations with the school maintaining the plantings, Ferrarese said.

One-Car Crash Caused By Rain

Rain contributed to a single-car accident yesterday on Lucas Valley Road in which a Nicasio man was injured, according to the California Highway Patrol.

Charles B. Twichell Jr., 20, of 5050 Lucas Valley Road, was treated at Marin General Hospital for a cut lip and fractured nose.

His car ran off the road two miles east of Nicasio at 9:30 p.m. and hit an embankment, patrolmen reported.

Marin Could Become Transport Guinea Pig

Federal officials have indicated that Marin "could be turned into a transportation laboratory for the whole United States," Marin Transit District Mgr. Seymour Kashin reported last night.

Officials in the Department of Housing and Urban Development "feel the transportation problem here is as critical as any other situation in the nation," Kashin said at the monthly meeting of the transit district board of directors in the Civic Center.

"Marin also is of national interest because of its natural beauty," he said, "and I was told this by some in HUD who had never even seen Marin."

Kashin reported that on his Feb. 12 visit to Washington, D.C., he also was told Marin might be able to qualify for demonstration and capital grants. "This is a very attractive offer that we ought to pursue," he said.

Kashin also reported that the deputy director of HUD, W. B. Hurd, had written him that his department would be particularly interested in testing freeway lanes reserved for buses.

The directors took no action on Kashin's report.

Peace, Freedom Meeting Slated

"Vote yes on peace" will be the theme of a Mill Valley neighborhood meeting of the Peace and Fredom Movement at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the Mill Valley City Council chamber.

"In view of the courageous stand taken by the Mill Valley City Council, it is up to us now to show our courage and work for the passage of the referendum" April 9, said Warren Levinson, Marin County chairman of the movement.

The movement meets at 8 p.m. each Friday in the council chamber, Levinson said.

Berkeley Mayor In Oregon Race?

BERKELEY (AP) — Berkeley Mayor Wallace J. Johnson, promoter of an "Eagle Plan" for ending the Vietnam war, said yesterday he may enter the Oregon primary as a GOP presidential candidate.

"I'm not running against anyone," Johnson said. The candidates on Oregon's ballot are to be announced Monday.

Johnson developed his plan for restoration of peace after a visit to Vietnam last November.

The plan calls for a conference of leaders of South and North Vietnam, Laos, Cambodia and Thailand, with a cease-fire prior to initial talks.

Driver Plea Kills Charge Of Hit-Run

Sausalito bartender Hugh Pillsbury, 36, is to be sentenced in Marin Superior Court April 1 for reckless driving. He reportedly struck and injured a pedestrain last Aug. 26 while driving on Bridgeway in Sausalito.

Pillsbury pleaded no contest to the reckless driving charge Tuesday in Superior Court. In light of the plea, the district attorney asked that a charge of felony hit-and-run driving against him be dropped.

Sausalito police said Pillsbury called them when he arrived home at Gate 6, Marinship early Aug. 26 and reported he may have hit someone on the way.

Police returned to the scene in the 2200 block of Bridgeway and found the pedestrian victim, Frank Raimondi, 28, of Brooklyn, N.Y. Raimondi was treated for a broken right leg, scalp cut and bruises of the back and chest.

More than 27,000 ships, with a total displacement of 115 million tons, entered and cleared the port of Singapore in 1967.

House Search Ruled Illegal By Goldstein

Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. of Marin Municipal Court yesterday ruled illegal a search which resulted in the arrest of an Inverness man accused of trafficing in marijuana and dangerous drugs.

Judge Goldstein dismissed charges of possessing marijuana and dangerous drugs for sale and transporting marijuana, which had been lodged against Donald W. Crossley, 23, of 375 Drakesview Drive.

'NO PLAUSIBLE CAUSE'

"I just can find no plausible cause for the officer to enter the house and make an exploratory search," the judge said.

Sheriff's deputies claim they found an envelope and package in Crossley's home Jan. 14, addressed for mailing and containing LSD.

The district attorney's office claimed he had about $375 worth of LSD and enough marijuana for 6,000 cigarettes in the house at the time of his arrest.

Deputies said they went to the house on the complaint of a runaway girl's father and found three kilos of marijuana, 151 capsules of LSD and the 16-year-old girl.

Terrence Hallinan, attorney for Crossley, said the officers found the girl at the door and had no reason to proceed into the house and search it. They had no warrant.

'EXPLORATORY SEARCH'

The judge indicated a month ago that he might supress the evidence and rule the search illegal.

"That's the very kind of exploratory search that the Supreme Court has repeatedly condemned," he said.

Deputy Dist. Atty. John Ralph Thomas argued unsuccessfully that finding the girl at the door gave the officers sufficient cause to suspect a crime had been committed (contributing to the delinquency of minor) and enter the house.

British Bandits Take $261,000

LONDON (UPI)—Six masked men armed with shotguns wounded a guard at an armored car company and fled with $261,000 in metal money boxes left with the firm, officials said today.

A company spokesman said the men, one wearing a guard's uniform, scaled a 10-foot wall and surprised the two guards on duty. They shot one in the foot and threatened the other before the guards opened the vault, he said.

The raiders fled with 33 boxes and officials at first said the loss would be about $75,000. But a later check of clients who had placed the money in the containers showed the loss was at least $261,600.

Tall Union Square Building Refused

SHELL

5 things we put in Super Shell to give you good mileage

The good mileage you get from Super Shell doesn't depend on Platformate alone. It calls for no fewer than five different ingredients blended in just the right proportions to give you good mileage under all typical driving conditions.

	What it is	How it helps mileage	Under what driving conditions
Platformate	Platformate is the petroleum industry's technical term for a gasoline ingredient whose molecules have been torn apart and then reformed with the help of a Platinum catalyst. The result of Platinum reforming is called Platformate.	Platformate contains 11% more energy per gallon than 100-octane aviation fuel. Extra energy equals extra mileage. Shell pioneered the use of Platformate as a major ingredient in gasoline. Today other good gasolines also contain it. (See note on formulation at bottom of chart.)	Platformate helps your mileage most when you're driving at sustained highway speeds—the conditions shown in the Super Shell mileage demonstrations on television.
TCP	TCP is Shell's trademark for a unique gasoline additive. Gasoline containing TCP is covered by Shell's U.S. Patent No. 2889212. In today's Super Shell, the chemical name for TCP's phosphorus additive is cresyl-diphenyl-phosphate.	Nothing can stop deposits from forming on spark plugs. These deposits can cause spark-plug misfire and reduce mileage. TCP combines chemically with certain deposits to keep spark plugs from misfiring, thus preventing mileage loss.	Deposits left untreated are most likely to cause spark-plug misfire and affect mileage when your engine is working hard—accelerating, for example. So that's when TCP helps mileage the most.
Detergent	It's just what it sounds like—a powerful cleaning agent with chemical properties that are similar to those of a good laundry detergent.	Super Shell's detergent cleans engine parts exposed to the flow of fuel. It prevents deposits from building up around the carburetor's metering system, which controls the air-fuel mixture. If allowed to build up, deposits could cause an improper air-fuel mixture, reducing mileage.	Super Shell's detergent helps under all driving conditions. (For more information on our detergent, and on other Super Shell ingredients, watch the Shell Answer Man on TV, and listen to him on radio.)
Butane	Butane is a highly volatile ingredient—which means that it will turn from a liquid to a vapor (like water turning to steam) at very low temperatures. Butane will actually boil on ice.	Butane's volatility helps your engine fire up fast in cold weather. The quicker your start, the less gasoline you use before you get going. A single slow start might not affect your mileage much—but it could really add up over a long winter.	The colder the weather, the more Butane helps. It can be particularly important if you do a lot of short-haul driving, calling for several cold-engine starts every day. NOTE: Butane also helps mileage by working with Pentane mix (see below) to warm up your engine in a hurry.
Pentane Mix	Like Butane, Pentane mix is a volatile ingredient. It helps your engine warm up quickly and smoothly. Its hydrocarbon molecules are small—so they serve as kindling in the Super Shell formula.	Misfiring during warm-up means coughing, bucking—and wasted fuel. Pentane mix works with Butane to prevent that misfiring. With a fast warm-up, your automatic choke can be adjusted to turn off sooner, keeping down the amount of extra fuel it has to send to your engine.	Pentane mix is especially valuable if you often drive only a few miles at a time, virtually warming up your engine the whole way. The cooler the weather, the more gasoline you can waste during warm-up—and the more Pentane mix helps.

No two gasolines are formulated quite the same way

There are few secrets in the making of gasoline. Although Shell has pioneered its share of major improvements—the use of TCP, for example, and of Platformate—the ingredients in Super Shell are known to other oil companies, and are used in one gasoline or another.

But the formula varies from gasoline to gasoline. No two oil companies make all of their ingredients quite the same way. They don't blend them in the same proportions. And they don't use all the same ingredients.

There is a certain art to the formulating of gasoline if you are to get good mileage under all driving conditions—no matter what sort of driving you do, no matter where you do it, and no matter what time of year it happens to be.

The blend must be carefully balanced. And it must be modified from time to time as the seasons change, and from place to place as the climate and altitudes change.

A Chance To Blend History With Recreation

A particularly fitting proposal for preserving a colorful bit of Marin history and at the same time providing recreation in an area where it is much needed was made at last week's meeting of the Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission.

Pierre W. Joske, county parks and recreation director, suggested that China Camp be acquired with the help of state and federal funds and made a county park as a memorial to Caroline S. Livermore.

We like the idea. We think Mrs. Livermore would too.

CHINA CAMP has been "doomed" ever since McNear's Point acreage was purchased for development of Peacock Gap. But so far, residential subdivision has not reached it; the huddle of shacks and the fishing pier remain. Members of the Quan family still sell soft drinks and bait and rent fishing boats.

The camp on the bay shore, just off San Pedro Road between Santa Venetia and Peacock Gap, had its beginning and acquired its name in 1882.

Chinese in San Francisco were being bedeviled in the aftermath of Dennis Kearney's anti-Oriental crusade and the Sand Lot Riots. Some 3,000 of them fled to McNear's Point and set up a shrimp fishing village along the shore, building their dwellings on piles driven into the shallows.

Left to themselves there, they prospered until bay pollution and state planting of bass in the water drove away the shrimp. Then they gradually moved away until only the present cluster of shacks and one long pier were left, with the late Henry Quan; his wife, Grace, and their children the only residents.

When the property passed from the McNear family to Latipac Corp., one of the enterprises of the Honolulu developer, Chinn Ho, the Quans were told they would soon have to move. That was in 1958. However, Peacock Gap development has not been so rapid as was at first envisioned, and has not yet reached China Camp.

It is entirely possible that the county could acquire the camp, with sufficient additional bayshore acreage for a waterside park, at a reasonable price.

ALTHOUGH MUCH of Marin's ocean frontage is now in public ownership, from the Fort Cronkhite land earmarked for a future state park to the vast Point Reyes National Seashore, little has been done about preserving the public's access to the bay shore.

This seems strange since most of the population is on the bay side of the county, and parks along the bay would be more easily available and would receive much more public use than those on the ocean.

China Camp, with its pier and boat dockage, would need little improvement to make it a county park of both wide use and historical significance. In fact, it would be a mistake to greatly alter its appearance; its colorful character has made it a favorite subject for artists over the years. The Quans probably would be willing and pleased to remain as concessionaires.

It would be a fitting memorial to Mrs. Livermore. But we are sure she would not like her name attached to it, except perhaps by a plaque placed somewhere on the property. She would want it to remain China Camp, the name by which it has been known for nearly a century.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

House Members Call For Closing Haiphong

By PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — Strong new congressional pressure is being exerted on President Johnson to make a drastic shift in the military strategy he is imposing on U.S. forces in Vietnam.

Instead of a defensive, protracted war policy, key members of the House armed services committee have called on the president to support offensive military measures designed to cut off North Vietnam's growing supply of powerful new weapons.

Most potent of the military actions being advocated by the legislators, headed by Rep. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., chairman, and Rep. Porter Hardy, D-Va., is the immediate closing of Haiphong Harbor.

The lawmakers propose that the port, through which 85 per cent of all military supplies for Nort Vietnam flow, be shut down either by mining its five-mile-long river entrance or bombing its crowded docks.

IF THE PRESENT Vietnam strategy isn't changed, the Rivers-Hardy group warned, strong opposition could develop in Congress to extending the authority to call up reserve units which expires on June 30.

Strategic limitations on U.S. military forces, according to the Rivers-Hardy report, trap them as described in the classic strategy for protracted war spelled out by Mao Tse-Tung:

"Freedom of action is the very life of an army and once this freedom is lost, an army faces defeat or annihilation. A soldier is disarmed if he, deprived of his freedom of action, is forced into a passive position. The same can be said of the defeat of an army. For this reason both sides in a war strive to gain the initiative and void passivity."

The legislators stressed, "Our well-publicized air strikes in North Vietnam do not alter that defensive character of present U.S. strategy, because those strikes have been greatly restricted rather than aimed at destroying the enemy's capacity to continue the conflict."

The vaunted mobility of U.S. forces in South Vietnam, the lawmakers contend, is more than offset by the sanctuaries allowed the enemy in bordering countries.

Other members of the House armed services committee joining in the report included F. Edward Hebert, D-La., Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y., William L. Dickinson, R-Ala., and Charles A. Helleck, R-Ind.

The recommendation of the house legislators to shut down Haiphong is similar to one made earlier by the Senate armed services prepardness subcommittee headed by Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss.

The closing of the port also was at the top of a list of emergency military measures recommended by the Joint Chiefs of Staff and General Westmoreland last week.

President Johnson until now has flatly rejected all requests to bomb or mine Haiphong, reportedly on grounds it might provoke the Russians.

ON THE ALERT — The Navy has moved to counter increased Soviet strength in the Mediterranean.

With the approval of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, the Navy has reshuffled its schedules to make sure there is always an antisubmarine carrier force on duty in the Mediterranean.

The naval move was authorized after U.S. intelligence confirmed that the Russians were now maintaining six submarines constantly on patrol where the U.S. Sixth Fleet operates.

And the Navy now plans to improve the command and control of the Sixth Fleet's antisubmarine warfare to consolidate its watching of Soviet submarine activity.

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

THERE PROBABLY will never be a day to equal for excitement at the famous Neiman-Marcus store in Dallas, the morning a postal card arrived there, scrawled in pencil in an almost illiterate hand, and bearing the unmistakably genuine signature of one of the richest oil barons in Texas. It read, "Please send up two of them rings you advertised and charge to my account." The rings were dispatched at once. They were listed in the catalogue at $127,000 each.

A retired broker was in bad shape indeed and one of his old pals dropped in to cheer him up. "Take heart," advised the pal. "You won't be called up until you're at least 85." "Ridiculous," jeered the broker. "Why should the Good Lord wait for 85 when he can pick me up at 76?"

Reagan Budget Belies 'Anti-Education' Charge

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — The 1968-69 budget for support of the University of California and the state colleges provided substantially greater funds per full-time student than the average of the past ten years, Gov. Ronald Reagan said yesterday on releasing figures.

"The increases per student at both the state colleges and the university are truly substantial," he declared.

"Those who have been vehemently flailing at the alleged lack of concern for higher education in California simply are ignoring the facts . . .

"Actually, had higher education received the same budgetary alignment as all other departments and agencies of state government, the university budget would have been $11.7 million less than we allocated, and the state colleges, $28.1 million less."

TO MAKE MORE funds available for higher education, the governor said, substantial cuts are being asked in welfare and Medi-Cal.

Regarding the higher education budgets, the governor's office said $184 more has been budgeted for each student at the university than during the current fiscal year, an increase of 6.2 per cent, which compares crease of $60 per student, or 2.6 per cent, over the past ten years.

Similarly, $116 more per student has been budgeted at the state colleges, or 9.11 per cent, comparing with an average annual increase over the past ten years of $60 per student, or 6.66 per cent.

The campaign to portray the administration as an "enemy of higher education" began shortly after the original budget requests of the university and the state colleges, which were reduced materially in the Reagan budget.

IT SEEMS unfortunate that the people of California should be subjected to a campaign of vilification when the facts fail to justify it. The facts are that higher education is not being neglected, nor has it been neglected in the past.

It is true that the educators have not always received all the money they requested. But it is also true that at certain times, there isn't enough money to go around, and 1968-69 happens to be one of the times.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

'Don't Change Law On Marijuana'

Editor, Independent-Journal:

After reading the editorial in last evenings (Feb. 27) paper I feel compelled to write and make my protest against the changing of any law concerning marijuana. Along with Attorney General Lynch, I feel that any slackening in the laws on marijuana, you are not discouraging, but encouraging the youngsters to use marijuana. There are laws that protect juveniles, so we know that the young will not be prosecuted for a felony. They know this also.

There are several articles in the same paper that should make you cringe as an adult. The one concerning the six children from Terra Linda, one stating that he had used marijuana since he was nine years old.

Parents should . . . wake up and write to their assemblyman and tell them to strengthen the laws on LSD, and leave the laws on marijuana alone. . .

This change if brought before the public to vote upon it would be badly defeated. . .

Let's quit pampering the young offenders and let them know what happens to people that break the law. Perhaps our policemen will gain a little respect back when the courts and editors and the public stand behind them. . .

Fortitude Transplant Needed By Judges

Editor, Independent-Journal:

I have been following the record of the current drive against narcotics and dope sellers and users with great interest. As the picture unfolds and we become more and more aware of the fact that Marin County has become riddled with supply sources for narcotics, the more shocked I become that affairs have reached this stage.

After almost 20 years in Marin County, this current status only solidifies and lends proof to the opinion which has been building in my mind. . .

That is that I have, throughout the years, built up a higher and higher opinion of the dedicated, unselfish service of our law enforcement officers at all levels. . . Despite harassment, castigayion and downgrading from every "nit-wit" group of "bleeding hearts" and rabble rousing activists which thrive in Marin County, these underpaid and overworked law enforcement officers have done an extremely commendable job — for which they have received more "brickbats" than "bouquets" from their fellow citizens.

I only wish that I could say as much for the judges, before whom apprehended culprits must appear for judgement.

There lies the real reason for the rise in crime and disorder in our county. The fact that our judges have proven so bamby-pamby in assessing fitting penalties to law violators that justice is a farce in our county.

It is my guess that we will see another wave of "slap on the wrist" probations, parole in care of parents or some agency, without punishment, or minimal fines which reach the point of absurdity. Coupled with an admonition of "be a good boy" from the judge to the offender, who will be back in business again within 48 hours.

We now have heart transplants, kidney transplants and many other sorts of transplants. Do we have a Marin County surgeon who can devise a transplant of moral dismay and especially intestinal fortitude for our judges, before action is taken in the courts on these cases?. .

Tourists Could Be Major Cash Crop

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Your thoughtful editorial about the merger of the Marin Visitors Bureau and the County Chamber of Commerce, for the purpose of attracting investment in expanded meeting and convention facilities, will, I hope, stimulate the action necessary to make such a goal a reality.

This beautiful place seems not to want massive industrial development, and large industries apparently have no intention of coming. In our search for a healthy economic base, what makes more sense than tourism? Seeking an economic identity for the last 20 years, Marin during that time has been consuming its prime asset, the environment. Our natural gifts of water, hills and greenery are being devoured in a more or less random development of acres and acres of single family homes, contributing to our problems with growing demands for tax supported services.

Monterey Peninsula has nothing in natural assests that we haven't, and in greater supply. It does have man-made places to stay and championship golf courses. Climatically, Marin is one of the five most benign places to live in the world, the best in the northern hemisphere. We have a magnificent national seashore which might develop more rapidly if pressesd, the whole of west Marin could be a vacationer's paradise, and the cities and towns of east Marin could prosper greatly if tasteful and adequate tourists facilites were available.

Tourists could be our major cash crop. They are in a holiday mood, with money to spend and small need for tax-supported services. They don't go to school and seldom go to jail. Their wants are simple: something to do, something to look at, good food and good beds, and scenic roads which aren't freeways.

I hope your editorial started something.

Little Chance That East Will Open Door In Wall

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

During the first week of June, 1966, the last of nearly a half million West Germans bade their tearful goodbyes to relatives in East Berlin and crossed back to their own side of the divided city.

Then the gates to the Berlin wall, opened briefly for the Pentecost holiday, swung shut again.

Except for occasional cases of hardship or other emergency they have not opened since.

During the religious holidays from Christmas through Easter and Pentecost nearly 1.5 million Berliners had visited the East.

FOR THE WEST German government, the holiday agreement permitting passage between east and west constituted both an act of compassion and an opportunity to prevent East Berliners trapped behind the walls from becoming resigned to their regime.

The East regarded it as a safety valve against an explosion by an unhappy population and as an opening wedge toward diplomatic recognition by the West.

But these hopes did not materialize.

In October, 1966, negotiations for a renewal of the agreement collapsed.

LAST WEEK, West Berlin Mayor Klaus Schuetz asked the East Germans to resume negotiations for Easter visits.

With armed Soviet helicopters flying the borders marked off by The Wall and new tensions developing between Bonn and Moscow, the request did not come at a propitious time and may be expected either to be ignored or denied.

The West German government had ignored a Soviet suggestion that it should reduce its political presence in West Berlin and instead called a series of government meetings to stress its ties to the city.

The Communists denounced them as "illegal and provocative."

The United States, unhappy that the issue had to come up at all, had to endorse the West German stand.

THE WEST GERMANS, while pushing their own opening to the east and at the same time maintaining their firm position against recognition of East Germany, have been warned by the United States that this is not the time to stir up new or even old world issues.

On the other hand, the United States cannot afford to retreat in Berlin.

Last August, Heinrich Albertz, predecessor to Schuetz as West Berlin's mayor, noted the sixth anniversary of the Berlin Wall by saying he hoped no one had grown used to it.

But what he warned against had, in effect, already taken place.

CRIME RATE CHALLENGES THE FAMILY

Six out of every 10 boys will face criminal arrest some time during their lives, if present trends continue.

This was the startling conclusion of a study prepared for the National Crime Commission.

Noting that arrest-rate projections surprise most people, the study cited the critical need for science and technology to join in research on criminal justice.

The report rebuts "the common notion that most people never encounter the criminal justice system and only a small class of 'criminals' do."

The rising incidence of crime is a chilling prospect. Part of it can be accounted for by recently improved methods of statistical reporting. Then, too, infractions such as drunkenness are classified as crimes.

But there is plenty of reason for concern. Since the home is the most immediate deterrent to crime, each of us should make special efforts to strengthen family life. In God's design, it is here above all that the stability of any nation can be secured.

Can District Be Happy With Town? Tune In LAFC For Decision

Can the petite but curvaceous Corte Madera Sanitary District find happiness through wedding the affable, willing Ross Valley Sanitary District?

Or will the sleek, statistics-quoting Town Council of Corte Madera succeed in merging with the distraught Corte Madera Sanitary District?

Certainly the latter (an expensive little number indeed, according to Corte Madera's black book) hasn't been happy with its pursuit by the town. But neither, for that matter, has the town been exactly delighted with the district.

In truth, the town has more stalked than courted the district, and although it has often talked with district officials about a possible union, it nonetheless went right ahead with a resolution of intent to merge, a request for approval by the Local Agency Formation Commission.

This, of course, left the district more in the position of being dragged to the altar by the hair than being led by the hand. And since there appeared no likelihood of remaining single any longer, the district resorted instead to fluttering its eyelashes in the direction of Ross Valley Sanitary District.

ROSS VALLEY respond gallantly. Of course, ma'am, it declared, we'd be right proud to join you all in asking that Local Agency Formation Commission to instead study a possible consolidation of our districts. After all, it wasn't as though they were strangers. In a manner of speaking, they had been side by side for many a month.

A gentleman of its word, the Ross district — about four times larger than the other district — joined the Corte Madera district in making the study request to LAFC.

Corte Madera town, naturally, only harrumped at this. It earlier had agreed to postpone the LAFC hearing so more discussion could be held. Now, however, it termed the consolidation study plan of the two districts only "a delaying tactic" and reaffirmed its own request for a merger.

Corte Madera already comprises about 90 per cent of the district, it pointed out, adding that the district has levied the highest property tax rate among all sanitary districts in the county, a walloping 85½ cents per $100 assessed valuation.

CORTE MADERA could save those taxpayers $9,075 annually by utilizing its own city attorney for legal matters, city engineer for engineering matters, bookkeepers for bookkeeping, and other costsaving measures, said the town.

It declared that integration of the district and town improvement planning programs should cause further tax rate reductions by spreading the need over a period of years in "consciously coordinated" capital improvements.

And although Corte Madera districts officials had questioned whether a merger wouldn't be contrary to the proposed county master plan for consolidation of sewage districts, the town declared that on the contrary, the move would make it even easier to enter a proposed county-wide sewage master plan in the future.

Too, it assured, district employees weren't going to be put out into the snow; they would instead be integrated into the town's administration.

Nonetheless, the district is clinging steadfastly to its districts' consolidation study proposal and the solution now lies in the hands of LAFC, marriage counselor in this triangle of hope and despair, desire and concern.

For the next thrilling true-life chapter in the lives of two sanitary districts and a town council, tune in later today when the LAFC is scheduled to hold a hearing on the town's merger request.

Civic Center Hosts Display Of Architecture

A new exhibit at the Civic Center is featuring architecture and town planning designs developed by the SAL (streets, architecture and landscapes) planning group of Berlin.

About 40 large designs in color, with a few photographic illustrations, are displayed in the foyer outside the supervisors' chambers on the third floor.

Sponsored by the Marin County Planning Department, the exhibit will continue through March. The display items were provided by Andreas Brandt, who is acting assistant professor in the architecture department at the University of California at Berkeley.

Mrs. Ethel Whipple of Corte Madera, member of the Marin Museum Association, serves as hostess and guide.

The SAL planning group developed what it calls the "interdisciplinary planning method," which emphasizes the use of outdoor space as an extension of living quarters.

BART'S Financing Reported 'Grim'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) The Bay Area Rapid Transit District's Board of Directors will meet March 14 to seek means of additional financing needed to complete the system.

General Manager B. R. Stokes warned BART's Administrative Committee Tuesday the financial plight was "grim."

"Our present circumstance is that we have no assurance we will be able to deliver a 75-mile system to the people of our district," Stokes said.

Thek system is in need of approximately $144 million over and above $821 million already encumbered in the $1.2 billion project.

THE PEOPLE'S SCHOOLS

Proposed Law Would Kill Open Meetings

By BRYCE W ANDERSON

A school board in San Diego County has started a move for legislation to permit closed meetings of school trustees to decide what they will offer teachers in negotiating sessions.

The Cajon Valley Union School District Board has asked the boards of all other California school districts with 5,000 or more attendance to join in its effort.

In a letter to the other boards, Rodney W. Helland, Cajon board president, pointed out that teacher organizations can meet in private to decide what demands they will present to the board — but the trustees must hold open meetings under provisions of two state laws.

This, Helland and his fellow Cajon trustees feel, is hardly fair.

SCHOOL BOARDS in 1966 were served notice by the California Teachers Association that the state's open meeting laws covered their discussions with negotiating councils of teachers. The CTA's Bay Section at that time sent to all school boards within its jurisdiction a letter analyzing the laws, citing attorney general's opinions and court decisions, and making plain that discussion of teacher salaries, working conditions, etc., must be in open meeting.

The Cajon Valley board's proposal is not that the discussion with teacher negotiating councils, set up under the Winton Act, be closed. It is that the board have a chance to meet in closed session first to prepare its proposals and its position.

The suggestion indicates how far the adversary concept has developed in dealings between teachers and school boards, and how far teachers have departed from the customary status of public employees.

One can sympathize with Helland and his fellow Cajon Valley trustees. Certainly the school board is at some disadvantage when the employees can work out their demands and tactics in private but the employing board must do so in public.

THE CAJON proposal, however, would serve to make the public sessions of school boards a mockery. This is because a great many things besides employment contracts are subject to teacher negotiation under terms of the Winton Act.

This act sets up procedures for organizational representation by teachers not only in all contract matters, but in "all matters relating to the definition of educational objectives, the determination of the content of courses and curricula, the selection of textbooks, and other aspects of the instructional program."

The sweeping nature of this act means that almost anything a school board discusses in the course of its business may be subject to teacher negotiations. Therefore, under the Cajon Valley proposal, almost anything could be discussed in private.

Does the board want to talk about educational objectives? These are matters on which the teacher representatives are empowered by the Winton Act to "meet and confer" with the board; therefore, the board could meet in secret to decide on its objectives.

Does the board wish to discuss purchasing some supplementary texts? Since these, too, are subject to negotiation, the trustees could make their decision in secret, then present it at the public meeting without anyone knowing what led to selecting one book rather than another.

Do trustees want to talk about adding some vocational courses? These are matters of curricula, covered by the Winton Act, so the board could discuss them in secret before presenting its decision to the teachers (and, not incidentally, to the public.)

And so on.

AS TO CONTRACT negotiations, their result does not seem to matter too much to many teachers anyhow.

In San Francisco, in Pittsburgh, throughout the state of Florida, and in various other places, teachers have gone on strike in recent weeks while under contract to teach. They have not charged that their school boards violated the terms of the teaching contracts they signed. They have not waited for the contracts to expire. They have walked out in mid-contract to back demands beyond those under which they had pledged their services.

This being the case, is there really much point in school boards negotiating teacher contract terms?

Confidence In ABAG Voted In Larkspur

Larkspur City Council last night gave the Association of Bay Area Governments a vote of confidence and a pledge of continued support.

The association has been under criticism since its assistant administrator, Thomas N. Truax, and $511,000 of its funds disappeared early last month.

"This could happed to any type of organization," said Councilman Neil R. Brixon.

"This is not ABAG's fault," said Mayor Earl J. O'Grady, who represents Marin cities on the association's executive council.

Councilman Vaughn Marker said "administration of the organization obviously needs improvement."

Councilmen then agreed to support the regional association.

The Larkspur City Council Also:

SIGN ORDINANCE — Recommended that the planning commission set a public hearing on a revised sign ordinance, which allows six years for amortization of a non-conforming sign before it must be removed. In the case of present non-conforming signs, the six-year period would be retroactive.

UNDERGROUND ORDINANCE — Discussed a proposed ordinance establishing procedures for undergrounding utilities in city areas, such as streets. L. P. Biancialana, representing Pacific Gas and Electric Co., reported that the utility company has allocated $10,400 to the city for undergrounding this year. Councilmen agreed to introduce the ordinance at their April 3 meeting.

FOURTH OF JULY — Allocated $500 to the Corte Madera Chamber of Commerce for the Fourth of July celebration in the Larkspur-Corte Madera area, with a hope that more activities will be conducted in Larkspur.

ELECTION — Approved five precincts for the Apr. 9 general municipal election and set April 16 at 8 p.m. at city hall for cnavass of the vote.

SIGN DENIED — Upheld planning commission denial of an application by Ad-Art Inc. for a liquor sign near the entrance of the Safeway Store on Bon Air Road by a 4-0 vote. Councilman Henry Brocco, engaged in the sale of liquor, abstained.

GIFT — Accepted a $140 donation from the Larkspur Women's Club for tables and benches at Dolliver Park.

LAWN MOWER — Approved purchase of a power lawn mower at a cost of $1,400, starting with a lease-purchase payment, if necessary.

PIPER PARK — Agreed to a request from Joseph P. Picetti, chairman of the Park and Recreation Commission for cleanup of the dumping area at Piper Park, and heard a report that the site proposed by the Marin County Chapter of the American Red Cross for a chapter headquarters building at the park is not suitable for construction.

FIRE TAX — Requested exclusion of Larkspur from the Marin County structural fire tax levy, an annual action.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned until April 3 in memory of Hil Provert, longtime Larkspur businessman and civic worker, who died of a heart attack while vacationing in Palm Springs last Thursday.

Tax Evader Is Member Of Clan Against Graft

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) —A San Francisco dentist, whose father and brothers have led fights against corruption for more than half a century, pleaded no contest yesterday to federal income tax evasion charge.

Dr. Edward Vincent O'Gara, 60, will be sentenced April 2 for failing to report $3,944 which would have increased his 1960 tax by $1,564.

One of O'Gara's brothers, Charles of Los Angeles, sparked an investigation of Internal Revenue Service scandals in the 1950s while an assistant U.S. attorney in San Francisco.

Another brother is former state senator Gerald J. O'Gara, now a San Francisco municipal judge. The dentist's father was John O'Gara, early day attorney who aided in the prosecution of San Francisco graft in 1907.

Tax Hike For School Passes

SAN CARLOS (AP) — A 33-cent tax increase to finance reconstruction of part of Central Elementary School, ruled an earthquake hazard, was approved by San Carlos voters Tuesday.

The vote was 1,574 yes, 1,475 no. Only a simple majority was required.

The tax increase will raise the $2.40 basic rate per $100 assessed valuation to $2.73 for a three-year period.

Public Tour Of Sonoma State Hospital Saturday

A public tour of Sonoma State Hospital will be sponsored Saturday by the Marin County Democratic Central Committee.

The committee invited interested persons to contact the co-chairmen of the tour, Mrs. Troy Lewis of San Rafael and Michael Healy of San Geronimo. Free car pool service will be provided at 8:45 a.m. at the Marin County Mental Health Association office, 1368 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael. The committee said the tour group would return to Marin by 3 p.m.

The hospital is the largest mental hosital in the western states, and serves mentally retarded persons from Northern California counties, including Marin. The hospital has been at the center of a controversy on whether the state provides enough money to support mental hospitals.

Chronic Drunken Drivers Decried

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Chronic alcoholic drivers account for up to half of car fatality accidents involving drinking, says Gov. Ronald Reagan's safety expert.

A cure for the chronic drunks must be found, Russ Walton told the California Safety Congress Wednesday. He said a result may come from a $700,000 study under way.

The study, of 3,500 chronic alcoholic drivers, is being undertaken by the State Transportation Agency, the University of Southern California, Los Angeles County courts and police departments.

Teacher Loses Miniskirt Case

MARTINEZ (UPI) — A judge declined yesterday to order the Mount Diablo Unified School District to rehire an english teacher who wore a green miniskirt to class on St. Patrick's Day.

Mrs. Nancy McGlone, 33, Vallejo, an attractive mother of four, was fired last spring after 20 charges were brought against her. They included leaving her class unattended, wearing capri slacks to a football game, refusing to attend school functions when directed and wearing the miniskirt to school.

Contra Costa County Superior Judge Norman A. Gregg refused yesterday to issue a writ of mandamus ordering the school district to reinstate Mrs. McGlone. He ruled that the school district board acted within its jurisdiction last Oct. 26 by deciding not to renew her contract.

Larkspur Changes Priority For Magnolia Improvement

Larkspur City Council last night switched its schedule for improvement of Magnolia Avenue to give priority to the stretch north of Doherty Drive.

Formerly, top priority was given to acquisition of Northwestern Pacific Railroad Co. right-of-way for a Magnolia Avenue by-pass from Doherty Drive to the south city limits.

The first project should be construction from Murray Avenue to the north city limit, estimated to cost $63,000, late in June, said City Mgr. Kent B. Bathurst.

The new schedule also calls for acquisition of right-of-way from Murray Avenue to Darthmouth Drive, estimated to cost $35,000, and from Darthmouth Drive to Bon Air Road, estimated to cost $60,000, in the 1967-68 fiscal year.

In 1968-69 there would be acquisition of right-of-way from Bon Air Road to Doherty Drive, estimated to cost $50,000, and construction from Murray Avenue to Darthmouth Drive, $68,000, and from Darthmouth Drive to Bon Air Road, $44,000.

The largest project, construction from Bon Air Road to Doherty Drive, $100,000, is scheduled for the 1969-70 fiscal year.

The improvements would be financed mainly with gasoline tax funds, and a $148,000 allotment from the Marin County urban thoroughfare fund, Bathurst reported.

Councilmen approved the revised schedule and authorized Bathurst to seek approval from the Marin County Urban Thoroughfare Committee.

The council also reviewed several possible plans for widening Magnolia Avenue from two lanes to four lanes from the Wooklark Apartments, south of Murray Avenue to the north city limits.

They indicated a preference for widening within the existing right-of-way.

There were several possibilities involving a sidewalk or parking lane along the east side of the stretch or wider travel lanes, but the council postponed action until April 3.

Marin City Owners Postpone Session

Last night's scheduled meeting of the Marin City Homeowners and Improvement Association was postponed until 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Marin City Boys Club.

The association will hear Lanny Berry, special assistant in the Tamalpais Union High School district office, discuss the proposed "project breakthrough" aimed at improving school performance of minority group students.

Retention Asked For Old Buildings

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Revision of plans for a massive merchandise mart complex below Telegraph Hill has been recommended to the City Planning Commission.

An alternative would place emphasis on preservation of many historic buildings in the area.

A report by a consulting firm said, "Emphasis would be placed on the preservation of a large number of existing structures which would be converted for new uses, perhaps to the point of declaring all or most of the areas as an historic preservation district."

Teen-Agers Spell Out Their Hang-Ups

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — Talk with teen-agers and they spell out bluntly why they get their hang-ups.

"We deal with the world the adults gave us."

In those words, one teen-aged girl discussed pressures that surround the growing generation. Pressures are on the teeners to make good grades, to get into college, to find time for all the activities of modern living, to find direction in a society of rapidly changing sex mores, to deal with parental ultimatums, even to adjust to the role of eldest child which puts on unique responsibilities.

And as potent as any of the homefront pressures is that of the war in Vietnam.

"We talk about that all the time," said Lynn Mogell, 16, a high school senior in Fanwood, N.J. "Many in our group are headed right from school into the service."

Some protest our role there. Some see no other course, no matter what the price.

BUT TALKING with thinking teens, leaders on many levels in their age group, puts the adult closer to bridging a generation gap — to understanding why some react to society with everything from beatnik appearance to drugs to complete freedom of sex.

One flaw is adults' attempts to generalize about teens—"that we are all fitted into one mold, all going to the dogs," said Jo Anne Gleason, 17, a high school senior in Greenwich, Conn.

The Misses Mogell and Gleason were among four teen-aged Girl Scouts I met while they were at national Girl Scout headquarters planning a first-time summer arts program from which all 3.6 million members should benefit eventually. The other two were Ricki Fairtile, 17, a high school senior of Woodside, N.Y., and Anne Crawford, 16, a high school junior, of Brooklyn.

The four are among the 640 Scouts from all over the United States who in July and August will participate in a "World of Arts" workshop at Pleasantville, N.Y.

All are active in one or more of the categories to be covered —music, drama, the visual and folk arts. Doris Biggio, coordinator of the workshops in which adult experts also will participate, said each girl is committed to return to her community and start some sort of arts program.

"ART OPENS up something inside you," said Miss Fairtile, a major in music at a specialty school. She's studied piano for eight years.

"Art helps you see things more clearly, I think," said Miss Mogell, who plays the guitar and sings.

What constitutes teen-age girl talk these days? Boys, sex, politics, parental ultimatums, grades—not in any order. The "new morality" puzzles them, but the four figured it was a question of freedom to decide what is right or wrong, whether it is connected with cheating in school or sex.

And drugs? There again, the decision has to be that of the individual. As one of the girls said, "We know full well who at our school is using them, but I think most are just experimenting."

FINDING THE time for school and after-school activitiec worries them all. Miss Crawford, for instance, devotes part of each day to the Sisters Versus The Cardinal

By GENE HANDSAKER

LOS ANGELES (AP) — They wear dresses. Some get permanent waves. They use their real names and sleep as late as they wish. So what's unusual?

The difference is that these are nuns—members of the schoolteaching Sisters of the Immaculate Heart of Mary. And they're involved in one of the hottest controversies sizzling anywhere in Roman Catholics' ferment over "renewal."

The sisters say the way they dress, the hours they keep and other changes are to update their 97-year-old order and help it serve the modern world.

But across town in the chancery office, 81-year-old James Francis Cardinal McIntyre, archbishop of Los Angeles, disapproves. He is known both as a parish builder and as a firm traditionalist.

In resolutions and letters to newspapers, many laymen, Franciscans, Jesuits and others heatedly take sides.

In the balance is whether most of 200 Immaculate Heart sisters will return next fall to their teaching posts in 36 parochial schools of the Los Angeles archdiocese.

As matters stand—at an impasse—they well may not, considering themselves fired by Cardinal McIntyre. Some parochial school doors could close and hundreds of Catholic youngsters be thrown into public schools.

What's the nub of the hassle?

For one thing, dress. No longer in ankle-length, dark blue habits with starched white headgear and black veils, sisters stroll the campus of Immaculate Heart College in dresses so contemporary you can't tell nuns from students or visiting mothers.

The college, its 14 beautifully landscaped, tranquil acres sloping steeply into the Hollywood Hills, is a girls' liberal arts school with an enrollment of 1,100. Its convent is mother house or headquarters for the Immaculate Heart order, most of whose 560 sisters teach in Catholic schools of the Southwest.

Some sisters are visiting beauty parlors and getting permanent waves for the first time in their lives.

Most have dropped ecclesiastical Latin names for the names they had since infancy. Sister Mary Humiliata, the order's vital and gracious mother general, for example, is now Sister Anita Caspary.

No longer do sisters rise invariably at 5:20 a.m. and, in the experience of one, "spend the first three hours of the day in a fog. It was possible to sleep through morning prayers. I speak from experience."

Gone is the no-conversation "grand silence" among sisters from 9 p.m. until after breakfast next morning. Gone is the arbitrary 10 p.m. lights out. Nuns set their own schedules for retiring, rising, praying, meditating and attending Mass. The only rule on late-night talk is thoughtfulness for others.

The sisters announced their experimental changes last October, saying they were in keeping with Pope Paul VI's exhortation to Catholic orders "to examine and renew their way of life and to engage in wide-ranging experimentation in achieving this renewal."

Gradually the word got out that the cardinal disapproved, even had fired the tradition-defying schoolteachers.

Sister Anita, the mother general, wrote 7,500 parents: "After 82 years in the archdiocese of Los Angeles, the sisters of the Immaculate Heart are being asked to stop teaching your children in the parochial schools."

Cardinal McIntyre issued a statement denying that he had dismissed the sisters. It did say they had been asked to determine how many wish to remain teachers "as religious"—that is, as members of a religious order.

"Sure he has fired them," says a male instructor at Immaculate Heart College. "The issue is whether institutions of the Church can be democratized or whether the old Roman law will prevail. The cardinal stands for the old Roman law."

The cardinal has said "the final decision on the future steps to be taken by the Immaculate Heart sisters resides with the sisters themselves."

Will the teachers return in the fall?

"That still is not a settled question," replied the college's president, Sister Helen Kelley, 42.

Are they fired if they don't return to their old ways?

"That's certainly the interpretation we have put on it," she said.

Both sides in the controversy have limited themselves largely to written, polite and generalized statements. But plenty is said on the sidelines.

A conservative lay group, moved by what a spokesman called the nuns' disobedience, organized to call attention to those defying Church authority.

The 700-member Los Angeles Association of Laymen, deploring the great tragedy, defended the nuns' right to experiment and make their own rules.

Franciscan priests and brothers expressed unqualifieid approval and support of the measures taken by the sisters to shape and develop their community in accord with the spirit and decrees of the Vatican II Ecumenical Council.

Twenty-nine Jesuit priests, mostly faculty members at Loyola University here, sent the cardinal an open letter saying the sisters "are justified in intiating experimental changes."

SISTER MARY Corita Kent, a school teaching nun at the Sisters of the Immaculate Heart of Mary order in Los Angeles, illustrates another change in appearance since Pope Paul IV authorized "renewal" for Catholic orders. At left, in 1959 picture she wears a traditional habit worn by Immaculate Heart nuns since order was founded in 1871. Center, she wears a modified habit adopted several years ago. At right she wears current dress of sweater and skirt. (AP Wirephoto)

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

He's Rude, Smartalecky And Snappy But She Thinks He Still Loves Her

DEAR HELEN:

I've been going with this boy for a year now. At first he was considerate and very sweet. But now, here's what he does:

Whenever we go to one of my dances, he expects introductions to all the girls and spends most of his time impressing them. But when he takes me to one of his proms, he doesn't introduce me to anyone except the girls he knows. Then he socializes with them all evening, leaving me alone.

He cuts down my clothes, my family, my friends, the way I do my hair. My folks are wonderful, and they've treated him awfully well.

He's been rude, curt, smartalecky, snappy and he finds fault with everything I do. If I fight back, he gets mad and sulks.

Now he's started to college, and it gets worse. He sometimes stands me up, or else he comes by without calling and expects me to drop everything to go out. Also, his hands are getting happy. He says my morals are too rigid for a college man.

Yet, even though he talks about other girls he knows, and compares me unfavorably, he still says he loves me.

Am I wrong to be

—PROTESTING MILDLY

DEAR PROTESTING:

Mildness won't change a boy who uses you to sharpen his ego. I'd suggest a foot-stamping protest march, right out of his life.

—H.

DEAR HELEN:

Why do mothers, if they can't make up their minds right off, say, "Ask your father," but, before you can, they get to him and slip him the right word to say, which is "no!"

—JIM

DEAR JIM:

Because a man's "no" carries more weight than a woman's. Moreover, she's keeping the final verdict where it beongs, with the head of the house, while neatly shifting responsibility so that she won't be called the villain.

As a boy I know says, "My dad is my mother's biggest weapon. She sure knows how to push his weight around!"

— H.

DEAR HELEN:

I am nine years old and my sister is 13. When we get into a fight, which is a lot, she calls me Fatty and I call her Big Nose.

How could this be stopped?

— WORRIED ONE

DEAR ONE:

Your mother could help a lot if she woud get you kids together on a peaceful day and figure out why you're so jealous of each other. This won't stop all the fights, but it may slow down the name calling.

— H.

DEAR HELEN:

I am a shy boy in high school and think this certain girl is all I want in life.

My problem is, hi is the longest word I've said to her. Sometimes I can't even get that out. Sometimes she seems to take an interest in me. How can I get to know her better?

— SHY GUY

DEAR GUY:

Telephones are terrific for breaking the communication barrier. When you aren't worried about what to do with your hands, feet and bright red face, you can do much better than hi. Give her a honk on the horn.

Women Drivers Dressed To Kill

LONDON (AP) — A road safety officer claims the modern femme fatale is the woman driver who wears a long-line bra and tight corset.

"She is dressed to kill," says Maj. Frederick Cook of Bournemouth, a south coast resort.

And he launched an appeal for safer clothes for women drivers.

Drawing on 40 years driving experience, the Major warned:

"When woman drivers wear a long-line bra and step-in corset, watch out for trouble.

"They restrict the breathing and make a woman hot and uncomfortable."

The Major, who explained his findings were the logical and obvious result of standing at street corners watching women drivers, said:

"She spends her time trying to relieve the discomfort. She takes her hands off the wheel and yanks at the offending garment.

"When they refuse to budge she becomes irritable, her attention wanders and to escape the torture she puts her foot down and more than likely has an accident."

Major Cook also condemned dresses with wide sleeves, high-heeled shoes, narrow dresses, mini-skirts which ride up and nylon gloves which slip.

"I suppose the ideal outfit would be nothing at all," he added, conceding, "but that might distract other drivers."

Anne Hope wrote in the Sun newspaper that she put the Major's views to Britain's best-known woman rally driver, Pat Moss Carlsson, who piloted an Italian Lancia in this year's Monte Carlo rally and who used to drive for Saab of Sweden.

"Few girls are so daft as to wear uncomfortable clothing when motoring," she replied.

"Look at me: I can't bear being restricted in a rally.

"I like either an old bra or one of the new elasticized things.

"If I feel restricted I undo the hooks and eyes.

"A tight corset? — The days of the tight corset are gone.

"I wouldn't wear one nor would any of my friends.

"High heels? —Out for driving. I always keep a pair of flatties in the car. Don't you?"

For spaghetti with minute mushroom sauce start cooking the spaghetti first so it will be done by the time the sauce is ready.

For sauce, lightly brown 4 slices of bacon, diced, in skillet. Remove bacon. Saute ½ pound of mushrooms, sliced, in the drippings about 2 minutes. Stir in 3 (8-ounce) cans of tomato sauce and the bacon; simmer covered 10 minutes. Serve on spaghetti with freshly grated parmesan cheese, if desired. Makes 4 servings.

REVERSING A CUSTOM

A special event during this week's Nursery Education Week for children of the Sausalito Cooperative Nursery School was a tour yesterday afternoon of the Sausalito city offices. Advice To Brides On How To Keep Him

Now that you've got your man roped, tied and branded, how are you going to keep him?

In these days of mobile jobs, mobile homes and mobile social groupings, what's to prevent mobile husbands?

Well, here are some ideas. . .

1) Know your man. Is he the tiger type? Or the brainy bird watcher? The conservative businessman? Once you know him, you can do what pleases him —most of the time anyway.

2) Be interested in him. Read up about his field, attend night classes on stock market basics, rudimentary business courses, or whatever his hobby is. You might have bluffed your way about sharing his hobby, up to now. But once the knot is tied, you have more time to observe each other in action; he'll learn the truth. Just don't let all your new knowledge to to your head. Even if you think you're superior, don't let on; let him tell you.

3) Compliment him. There must be something he can do bettern than you. And you can always say what marvelous taste he has — he picked you didn't he? But don't overdo it.

4) Bon't give up your personality completely. You're an individual too, not just an extension of his alter-ego. If you're interested in music or art, and he's not, go to a concert with girl friends or to a museum by yourself. Then tell him about it. He might end up by going with you. Also if you don't agree with him on every issue, don't be afraid to state your opinion. No man wants a complete sponge.

5) Once in a while do something completely out of character. Don't let him get bored. Retain that mysterious — what-is-she going-to-do-next air?

6) Above all, don't nag, berate him or destroy his manly image. Make him glad to come home.

Chcosing The Bridal Bouquet

For her wedding, a bride usually carries white flowers with possibly a touch of color, like blue forget-me-nots. An arm bouquet of calla lillies, large white chrysanthemums or a sheaf of gladioli is especially effective. In corsages for an informal wedding, white orchids are preferred.

Dutch Torte Dessert

Torte Groningen is a Dutch version of Italian biscuit tortoni, a frozen dessert. Whip ¾ cup of heavy cream until it begins to thicken. Gradually add ¼ cup of sifted confectioners' sugar and continue beating until cream is stiff. Fold in 5 teaspoons of chocolate mint liqueur and 1 small egg white, stiffly beaten. Spoon into 4 or 5 fluted paper cups or custard cups and freeze about 4 hours, or until firm.

Try A New Sauce

New canned tomato sauce with tomato bits contains small chunks of tomatoes that hold their shape during cooking. Available in 8 and 15 ounce cans.

ON THE AGENDA

'Ben's Auto Stage' Will Be Recreated For Primrose Tea

When the steam train came puffing down the track and stopped at Point Reyes Station in the early days, it was met by Ben's Auto Stage, which took passengers to Inverness. It was a friendly world of people on vacation which the Inverness Garden Club will recreate for its annual Primrose Tea which will be held March 14 from 1 to 4 p.m. at the Point Reyes Community Center, called "the red barn" by old-timers because it was once the round house for the steam trains.

In the round house which, now remodeled by the West Marin Lion's Club, Ben's Auto Stage will be recreated along with the traditional and new events to make up the afternoon's festivities. The tea will be held inside the Community Center, so even if it pours, everyone can be happy and dry, workers and guests alike.

Of course the tea table will be spread with the traditional breads for the tea drinkers, and more will be on sale. There will also be the usual primroses and other plants for the garden, a booth with small garden accessories and books of local interest including one entitled "Ben's Auto Stage".

Once the visitor finds Pt. Reyes Station, markers will guide him to the scene of the tea.

Mrs. Shirley Morgan is tea chairman.

MEMBERS OF the Marin Easter Seal Auxiliary have prepared 60 coin canisters for distribution to merchants throughout the county this week. Project chairman is Mrs. Alphonse Hericourt of Greenbrae. Assisting her are Mesdames Barney Norwitt of Tiburon and Louis Mountanos of San Rafael. Last year coin canister distribution realized $723 for the direct service programming of the Marin Easter Seal Society. The auxiliary though still young, raises funds to sponsor children with speech and language impairments in the therapy program at the Easter Seal Center.

THE NOVATO Squares Square Dance Club will host a square dance at 8:30 p.m., Saturday at Lynwood School in Novato. Jerry Firenzi will be caller.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Twist are chairmen assisted by Messrs. and Mesdames Lyle Croisant, William Jonas and Lambert Davids.

MRS. ROLLIN K. Post of Greenbrae has been appointed area chairman for Marin County in the Smith College Capital Campaign for 17 million dollars in new funds.

Mrs. Post is president of the Marin Smith Club. She will be assisted by several other Smith alumnae in this area: Mesdames Richard M. Adams of Belvedere, John W. Clow of Mill Valley, Edward A. McCrum of Kentfield and William Richardson of Ross.

Smith College is the largest independent college for women in the United States. Smith's campaign for 17 million dollars is part of a long range effort to obtain 45 million dollars in new capital funds for the college in order to maintain its outstanding academic quality and high standards and to meet the competition in higher education.

CAPTAIN EDWARD R. Moore of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District will be the guest speaker when the Credit Women of Marin honor their bosses at their "Bosses' Night" at Tiburon Tommie's on Tuesday.

At the dinner, the new Boss of the Year for the Credit Women will be crowned by Clay Rice of the McNear Company, who has reigned as Boss of the Year for 1967-68. The Boss is selected by judging of essays written by the members on 'Why My Boss Should Be Boss of the Year".

MARIAN ANDERSON will be guest of honor for the concert and reception Monday marking Young Audiences Week in the Bay Area. She is a member of the national board of directors for the Young Audiences program which presents live chamber music by local artists to the elementary schools. Under this program some 55 concerts were given in Marin last year and of the 30 planned for 1968 in Marin 18 have already been performed. Marin residents who are musicians for the Young Audiences group include Chris Bogios, trumpet; and David Smily, viola, of Mill Valley; Jeremy Merrill of Larkspur, French horn; and Peter Ballinger of San Rafael, recorder. Young Audiences week began Monday and will culminate with the concert at the De Young Museum next Monday at 8:30 p.m.

MEMBERS OF the Mill Valley Women's Golf Club will be hostesses Friday to the North Bay Women's Golf Association. This is a big event for the Mill Valley women since it happens only once every three years.

Refreshments will be served after the morning tournament. Some 75 players are expected on the field from the women's club in Ukiah, Vallejo, Peacock Gap, Northwood in Guerneville, Oakmont in Santa Rosa, Indian Valley in Novato, Sonoma, Petaluma, Buckingham in Lakeport, San Geronimo and Chimney Rock near Napa.

Mrs. B. R. Wilkie, North Bay director for the Mill Valley club, is in charge. Guests will be assisted with parking by Mrs. William Zepponi and her committee. Heading other committees are Mesdames Jules de Beaubien and James Betts, refreshments; Donald Fox, decorations, and George Prydz, starting desk.

THE NOVATO Assembly of Rainbow Girls will sponsor a smorgasbord dinner beginning at 6 p.m. Monday at the Druids Hall in Novato. Ticket chairmen are Patty Reiser and Ellen Bussman.

Profits from the dinner will be used for bus fare for the Rainbow Girls to attend grand assembly at Long Beach this year.

Most of the food for the dinner is being donated by the Novato Rainbow Mothers' Club which will include salads, hot casseroles, ham, chicken and various desserts.

THE NOVATO Newcomers Club will have a tea for new members who have joined within the past year at 1 p.m., tomorrow at the Bel Marin Keys Community Center. Mrs. Jerry Domilise is in charge of the tea.

Mime Troup May Perform In Mill Valley

The San Francisco Mime Troupe, controversial performers of commedia dell'arte, may come to Mill Valley this spring.

The Mill Valley Art Commission Tuesday recommended the parks and recreation department issue the troupe a permit to perform May 18-19 and June 8-9 in Boyle Park. The troup proposes to produce "Ruzzante" in May and "Patelin" in June.

The troupe has been banned in several Bay Area locations for performances local authorities called obscene.

The art commission also named a four-member committee to study potential sites for a proposed Mill Valley art center, and to determine the amount of space and type of facilities needed.

Committee members are Sali Lieberman of the art commission, C. Russell Compton of the Center for the Performing Arts, Richard J. Young of the Fall Arts Festival Association, and artist Gloria Churchman.

A budget subcommittee comprising Mrs. Matthew Dillingham and Donald E. Dudley was named to study 1968-9 budget requests of the Performing Arts Center, the Fall Arts Festival, and the art commission.

450 To Take Part In Big Music Event

More than 450 students will take part in the third annual county-wide music festival sponsored by the Marin County Music Teachers Association, the County Superintendent of Schools and the Dixie School District starting tomorrow.

The band conductor will be Robert Lutt, founder and manager of the Cazadero Music Camp at Berkeley.

Co-ordinators for the three sections will be: chorus, Alvaretta Murray, Larkspur-Corte Madera Schools; orchestra, Karl Johansson, Novato Schools, and band, Tod Fleming, Mill Valley Schools.

'Gussie Nixon' Enters Republican Ballot Bid

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The names of Robert F. Kennedy and a Nixon are the latest possibilities for California's confused June 4 presidential primary ballot.

Sponsors of two pro-Kennedy delegations to the Democratic National Convention filed papers for their slates just before the 5 p.m. deadline yesterday.

This is the first legal step in organizing a delegation.

There was a mysterious entry on the Republican side. Mrs. Cheryl Denise Gillies, a young Berkeley housewife, proposed an unpledged delegation for the GOP primary—headed by Mrs. Gussie Nixon, whose name would appear on the ballot.

Who is Mrs. Nixon? "A relative of the (former) vice president's," replied Mrs. Gillies. But she wouldn't reveal the relationship because Nixon, a candidate for president, "has decided it would not be right to divulge it."

She said Nixon was informed of the move and replied that he wanted no part of it.

Nixon press secretary Pat Buchanan said Nixon continues to respect Reagan's favorite-son course in California.

Mrs. Gillies aim: To keep Reagan, a potential GOP presidential nominee, in California. "We're concerned about California," she said.

One of the Kennedy groups is specifically pledged to the New York senator. It was organized by the Sacramento branch of Citizens For Kennedy, affiliated with the National Kennedy for President in 1968 organization.

But in addition to obtaining 13,746 signatures, sponsors need Kennedy's written permission before they go on the ballot.

The other Kennedy group is unpledged, although Chairman Robert L. Harmon, a San Francisco attorney, made it clear "I think the people on the committee would like to see the senator become a candidate." They do not need Kennedy's permission.

The delegation pledged to the peace candidacy of Sen. Eugene McCarthy, D-Minn., qualified for the primary early yesterday morning. A rival slate of party regulars favoring President Johnson and his Vietnam policies is being organized, although internal friction has slowed the work. It is headed by Atty. Gen. Thomas C. Lynch.

Meeting Reset

Because of absences, the Enchanted Knolls Homeowners Association postponed last night's scheduled meeting until 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Mill Valley School District office.

Marinites Aid Signup For McCarthy

A total of 556 Marin Democrats stayed up after midnight yesterday to sign petitions that helped Sen. Eugene McCarthy qualify for the top spot on California's June 4 presidential primary ballot.

A co-chairman of the Marin County Eugene McCarthy for President Committee, Mrs. Harold Watkin of Kent Woodlands, reported the signatures were gathered after midnight at seven parties that began at 10 a.m. throughout the county.

The California McCarthy for President organization reported that 28,000 signatures were collected to assure that the 172-member McCarthy delegation will be on the ballot ahead of the delegation pledged to President Johnson. Yesterday was the first day signatures could be gathered.

The Johnson delegation, headed by Atty. Gen. Thomas Lynch, has not started its petition drive.

The 28,000 signatures were more than twice the number needed.

When John L. Sullivan retired he held the bare-knuckles boxing title.

Adult Education Signups Slated

Spring quarter non-credit classes in adult education will begin March 25 at College of Marin.

Deadline for advance registration by mail is March 20. Advance registration in person is scheduled for Monday through March 22 in Room 2, Harlan Hall. Registration also will be possible in class during the week of March 25. The quarter ends June 14.

Classes offered include arts and crafts, business education, home arts, liberal arts, music, parent education, physical education, public service, technical-industrial training, and trade and technical courses.

Britisher Hits U.S. Anti-War Intellectuals

LONDON (UPI)—A prominent British politician told members of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce today he was "sick and tired" of hearing intellectuals abusing the United States on Vietnam.

"I know exactly where I stand," said Conservative Party Chairman Anthony Barber. "The United States is fighting for the survival of the free world against the spread of communism and. . .deserves our gratitude and understanding."

Barber said intellectuals who called for U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam didn't realize what they were asking for — "an unconditional surrender which would announce to the world that Communist aggression pays off."

Grocery Industry Asks: Why No Tax On Caviar?

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The grocery industry has labeled "ridiculous" the state system which taxes candy but not cream puffs and caviar.

Industry representatives roundly criticized the state's sales tax exemption for food yesterday at a hearing by the Assembly Revenue and Taxation Committee.

Merle J. Goddard, California Grocers Association, told the committee the exemption is probably the "most costly and perplexing problem" facing the industry.

The committee is conducting interim hearings on the law which does not require a sales tax on a majority of food items, but does collect the tax on many products which can be eaten.

"I curse the day the Legislature hung this ridiculous law on an innocent and unsuspecting board of equalization and food industry," said James Stell of Lucky stores. "Both parties deserve a better future in life."

The Board of equalization is charged with administering the tax.

As an example of the law's confusing aspects, Goddard pointed out candy is taxed because it is considered a luxury item but cream puffs and caviar aren't because they are listed for tax-purposes as non-luxury items.

Reagan Admits Income Tax Hike Bitter Pill

SACRAMENTO (CNS)—Gov. Ronald Reagan said last night the lesson of April 15, when the new and greatly increased state income tax becomes due, will be a harsh one and he hopes it makes the taxpayers angry — but the anger should be focused on the people who caused it.

Reagan spoke to the annual meeting of the California Taxpayers Association in San Francisco.

"The lesson of April 15, 1968, will be a harsh one," Reagan said. "It should serve as a reminder that government is not free—not even when the costs are hidden and sugar-coated and dribbled out through gimmicks and slogans which may sound good, but which only delay the day of reckoning.

"The tax increase should make you angry," he said. "I hope it does make you angry. It makes me angry."

Reagan said the Legislature, almost daily, passes bills which demand more of the people's money.

"The votes are cast and the bills passed by those legislators who know full well that, if the taxpayers were voting, the bills would be turned down," Reagan said. "Yet too many legislators continue to vote to take or mortgage more of your money."

Reagan said it would have been expedient for him to go along with a withholding of state income tax, to hide costs of government and escape the wrath of the taxpayers. But he said that credit card approach would make it seem the state was spending less when actually it was spending more.

$10 Million For Colleges, U.C. Building?

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The University of California and state colleges have been told they may receive up to $10 million extra for new buildings next year.

Gov. Ronald Reagan said yesterday that an estimated increase in expected revenue from offshore oil leases would permit the university and colleges to add more to their highest priority construction.

Reagan earlier cut the 1968-69 higher education construction budgets to about one half the amounts requested by the U.C. and the colleges. Campus officials said this would eliminate new libraries planned at the colleges and hamper U.C. medical school construction.

"I would hope that this additional money would be used for library facilities at the colleges and for medical school construction at the university," Reagan said.

Reagan said a state study showed that developers may pay higher pre-production bonuses than expected when offshore oil leasing begins in May.

The governor explained that the higher estimate was made after the federal government received higher bonuses than anticipated when it began leasing its offshore oil areas last month.

Plan Presented To Replace Old Dumbarton Span

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Assemblyman Carlos Bee proposed today legislation to clear the way for construction of a new, high-level bridge across San Francisco Bay.

It would replace Dumbarton Bridge between Fremond and southern San Mateo County.

His bill would appropriate $1.-75 million for studies and preliminary work on construction.

The present bridge opened in 1927 is "substandard, hazardous and not adequate for present and future traffic needs," said Bee, D-Hayward.

Courts Will Become Students' Classroom

The 48 civics students of Tomales High School will go to court Tuesday for a lesson in American justice.

They will be there at the invitation of Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. of Marin Municipal Court, who believes that high school students could better understand the judicial process if they visited court as part of their study.

A tentative program for the visits was set up Monday night, when the judge met with representatives of Marin Catholic, Sir Francis Drake, Terra Linda and Tomales high schools.

Representatives of the county's four other high schools also were invited, but failed to attend, the judge said.

Judge Goldstein said the Tomales students were selected to begin the program because their class is the smallest and will have the least impact on the small courtrooms.

Their inspection of the courts will begin at 9 a.m. Tuesday with an introductory talk by Judge Goldstein. For the rest of the day, they will sit in on a jury trial and a preliminary hearing.

The students will return Thursday, to watch the court's contested traffic sessions in the morning and a trial before a judge in the afternoon.

On Friday, they will observe the probation and sentencing calendar in Judge Hadden W. Roth's court and the afternoon criminal calendar.

No plans have been made yet for attendance by classes from the other schools, said Judge Goldstein.

Strawberry Rec Directors Double Attorney's Fee

Directors of the Strawberry Recreation District last night unanimously approved doubling the monthly retainer fee of attorney Stephen H. Kaufmann from $50 to $100, according to board clerk Mrs. Jean Heick.

Mrs. Heick said the raise was initiated by the board because the old retainer fee was "unrealistic" compared to other attorneys fees in special districts.

Directors James K. Garner and Arthur R. Senter reported that a new contract is also being drawn up for architect J. Martin Rosse.

In other actions, the board gave permission to the Marin Lacrosse Club to use the playing field at Strawberry Park for league play on March 31, April 7 and 13 and May 12.

A resolution was adopted making minor changes in the district's purchasing policies to conform to amendments made late last year in the State Public Resources Code under which the district operates, Mrs. Heick said.

Directors Senter and Carl L. Schaefer were appointed to prepare a preliminary budget for the next fiscal year and report at the May 11 meeting.

Guitars, Valued At $900, Stolen

Two guitars valued at about $900 were among the items reported Tuesday to San Rafael police as stolen.

The instruments belonged to a group called "Chances Are" and were taken from the stage area at the Bermuda Palms Motel, said police.

A $70 stereo player and tapes worth $14 were taken from a car which Lynne F. Boyd of 8 Hayes Street, Apt. 10, San Rafael, parked outside the apartment, said officers.

David E. Sanders of 51 Sulgrave Lane reported a $60 radio was taken from his car he parked outside San Rafael High School yesterday, police reported.

29 Jet Crash Bodies Found

POINTE-A-PITRE, Guadeloupe (AP) — The charred bodies of 29 victims have been recovered from the wreckage of the Air France Boeing 707 jet that smashed into a forested mountainside on the Guadeloupe island of Basse-Terre Tuesday night.

All 63 persons aboard—14 crewmen and 49 passengers — were killed in the crash and explosion that followed.

The wreckage was scattered over an area 200 yards wide near the top of the 3,937-foot volcanic mountain.

Driver Cuts Lip In Crash

A San Rafael man suffered a cut lip yesterday in a two-car crash on Shoreline Highway in Tennessee Valley.

Walter V. Sparks, 28, of 1991 Las Gallinas Road, San Rafael, was treated at Marin General Hospital.

His westbound car crossed over the center line, west of Tennessee Valley Road, and struck an eastbound car driven by Bruce Warendorff, 39, of 106 Lovell Street, Mill Valley, at 9:50 p.m., the California Highway Patrol reported.

NEW ISSUE

Nixon Takes Poke At Rioting Panel

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Richard M. Nixon, calling for a get tough policy for rioters and criticizing the courts for handcuffing the police, is making a major campaign issue out of crime and lawlessness.

Nixon, winding up a three-day get out the vote tour of New Hampshire today, is drawing his loudest cheers with his jibes at the courts.

"Some of our courts have gone too far in weakening the peace forces against the criminal forces," Nixon said last night in Keene, N.H.

The former vice president sharply criticized the President's Commission on Civil Disorders earlier in the day for blaming riots in the nation's cities on "everyone except the perpetrators of the riots.

Nixon told a turn-away crowd of 1,300 in Keene that if President Johnson is re-elected in November, the nation will "continue to be torn by racial strife."

The former vice president received a loud ovation when he promised to "stop the rise in crime and reestablish respect for the law" if elected to the White House.

Nixon also predicted that Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., "will make an effort on both the top and the second spot but will fail when he sees that he is unable to muster the necessary votes."

He also forecast that Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., will pull more votes for his peace candidacy against Johnson than has been predicted.

And Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, says his pro-Johnson fellow Democrats have reverted to the tactics of the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy in suggesting that the Minnesota Democrat's peace campaign is inspired by "softness" on Communism or a policy of surrender in Vietnam.

Nixon, borrowing a tactic the Democrats used in 1960 when John F. Kennedy made political hay on the so-called "missile gap," also told New Hampshire audiences yesterday that Johnson has allowed "the superior power of the United States to be eroded."

"When President Eisenhower left office, the power balance was 7-1, "today, it's down to 2-1. Unless we get some new leadership, the Soviet Union will catch us and pass us in terms of military power in the next two years."

Nixon renewed his pledge to end the war in Vietnam, and he also called for an end to the draft and creation of a professional army after the war was over.

McCarthy reacted sharply to a series of broadcast announcements sponsored by the New Hampshire Democratic committee urging support for President Johnson.

McCarthy, in a bitter statement, said, "The announcements are essentially the same tactics used when Joseph R. McCarthy was around...We've heard charges of appeasement and apostles of retreat before from Republicans. It's kind of surprising to hear it from Democrats."

There were these other developments:

Drives to get enough signatures to get former Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace listed on primary ballots were apparently successful in Nebraska and Nevada.

Florida Democrats decided to send a "favorite son" slate to the Chicago convention, meaning the slate will not be pledged to President Johnson.

Sentence Date Set For Drunken Driving

Robert William Taylor, 47, of Sebastopol, is to be sentenced in Marin Municipal Court April 5 for driving while intoxicated Aug. 17 on Highway 101.

A Municipal Court jury found him guilty of the offense Tuesday. Deputy Dist. Atty. Gary W. Thomas prosecuted and Berwyn Rice defended.

Paris Delaying Israeli Jets Sale

PARIS (UPI)—France told Israel today it will not lift its embargo on sales of French Mirage jets to Israel until "serious" Middle East negotiations begin, government sources reported.

French authorities told Gen. Svi Tsur, deputy Israeli defense minister, that France would uphold delivery of 50 Mirages although Israel has partly paid for them.

The French position was that to supply Israel with the planes would only risk a new arms race.

Oil Slicks Battled Off Puerto Rico

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (UPI)—U.S. Coast Guardsmen using floating booms swept some oil from San Juan Bay today but oil slicks from the broken tanker Ocean Eagle were reported extending 11 miles along the beaches.

Effort to tow the bow section of the tanker to sea were halted temporarily while new rigs were devised to try to pull the wreckage off the rocky bottom. A flotilla of tugs and other vessels were expected to try again at the next high tide.

Goldwater Still Likes Nixon But Pledges Party Unity

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — Former Sen. Barry Goldwater today said he would do all in his power to help Richard Nixon win the 1968 Republican presidential nomination, but said he would support whomever the party selected.

Goldwater, the party's 1964 presidential nominee, said he believzd that "within the next 30 days Dick Nixon will have so clearly demonstrated his nationwide support for the nomination that serious discussion of other Republican candidates is fruitless."

In a news conference at his office here, Goldwater said, "I have stated on numerous occasions since 1965 that in my opinion the Republican Party had, in Dick Nixon, a man who was singularly qualified to carry our banner in 1968...

"I hereby reaffirm that support and will do all within my power to assist Dick Nixon in obtaining the nomination and winning the general election of 1968."

Goldwater said, however, he would support whomever the party nominated regardless of his personal feelings.

"However personally satisfying it might be for me at this time to repay in kind some members of my own party for their actions in 1964, I am fearful that such personal indulgence might stand in the way of the pressing business at hand—the election of a new leader for the United States...

"I am not a sometime Republican. I have always been a Republican and have always supported the nominee of my party. This I will do in 1968."

Goldwater said he would answer no questions but simply read the statement prior to departing for New Mexico.

Goldwater said earlier this week he would not be able to support Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York because of Rockefeller's refusal to support the former senator's own presidential bid in 1964.

However, the next day, Goldwater backed off a bit, saying he would rather "leave open" the question of backing Rockefeller. His latest statement indicated he would support the New York governor or anyone else nominated by the Republicans.

Telephone Workers In Wildcat Strike

BERKELEY (UPI) — Pacific Telephone Company employes held a wildcat walkout at several Berkeley offices yesterday but returned to work later in the day.

Local 9415 of the Communications Workers of America posted pickets on grounds the company refused to discuss a grievance. Installation, repair and plant workers and operators refused to cross the lines.

PG&E Spokesman Backs Rate Hike

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Robert H. Gerdes, president of the Pacific Gas & Electric Co., says the utility's earnings are not unreasonable.

He made the statement yesterday in denying assertions by Public Utilities Commissioner William M. Bennett that PG&E is making too much money and should reduce its rates.

Gerdes told a commission meeting that study by the commissions own expert concluded that the rates are fair.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

PRESENT POLICY

Candidate Trio Against Synanon

By ROSS DAVIS

The three candidates for the two seats on Corte Madera's Town Council in the April 9 election today agreed that all efforts must be made to prevent Synanon Foundation from moving into the town in violation of zoning regulations.

They also agreed that city councils should not take official stands on national issues, such as the Mill Valley City Council did Monday.

They varied, however, in opinions on the county's proposed 250-acre park in east Corte Madera, and whether a county-wide government should eventually be established.

The trio, Robert P. Simmons, Jack W. Kelley, and Byron D. White, expressed its views on the "Sounding Board" program of radio station KTIM.

Kelley, first Corte Madera candidate to speak, declared if Synanon persists in its intention of buying and moving into The Uplands apartments at 5200 Paradise Drive in East Corte Madera, it would be "adverse to our own laws, so the question is, are they going to get the zoning laws changed?"

The town council has maintained that Synanon, as a narcotic addict treatment organization, would violate the zoning ordinance unless a use permit is sought and granted.

BEST TO BUILD

Kelley said if Synanon has sufficient money to buy the apartments, it would be best for it to instead buy and build where there is no zoning conflict.

Simmons, only incumbent of the trio, declared, "I have no opinion for or against Synanon per se. This (issue) is not before the town as yet." He added, however, that he is against any attempt by Synanon to move into the apartments illegally.

White said, "I'm opposed to Synanon being in the city limits of Corte Mxadera in the way it is proposed." He added, however, that he felt the council is doing all it can to prevent it.

NATIONAL ISSUE

On the national issue question, Simmons said, "I don't feel any council or any political body lower than the federal level should take an official stand." The Mill Valley council passed a resolution calling on President Johnson to seek a policy of peace in Vietnam. Kelley and White agreed.

Kelley also said he would prefer private development of the 250-acre site, marshlands east of Highway 101, rather than the county's proposed park, because the former would keep the land on a taxpaying basis. He said he knows a man who would develop land in that area into a marina, restaurant and golf course.

Simmons said he isn't enthusiastic about garbage fill for such a park, but wants to hear more details. White said he has been against the county proposal from the start.

TWO AGREE

Simmons and White agreed that an eventual city-county government for Marin County is desirable to eliminate much duplication of agencies and commissions. Kelley disagreed, saying wht is good administration for one city is not necessarily good for another.

Kelley is owner of American Art Cleaners, 5593 Paradise Drive. White is a buyer for Fibreboard Corp. He is a planning commissioner. Simmons, a certified public accountant, was appointed to the council Jan. 15 to fill a vacancy.

A rebroadcast of the program, conducted by Kitty Oppenheimer, will be on KTIM at 10 a.m. Sunday.

Judge Orders Teen Vandals To Pay Costs

Six Marin youths, who battered down bathhouse doors Saturday night at Point Reyes National Seashore and strewed some 200,000 sheets of toilet paper along the 14-mile drive back to Point Reyes Station, were sentenced yesterday to clean up the mess and pay for damages totaling $469.

Judge David R. Baty of Northwest Marin Justice Court also put the six juveniles on probation for six months, with a stern warning that any further capers would land them in juvenile court.

Ten youths, age 14 to 18, were involved in the beer-fed spree, but four were released for insufficient evidence.

Judge Baty ordered the six youths to report to the sheriff's substation in Point Reyes Station for the next four Saturdays, and to work from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. cleaning up the 14 miles of litter all the way back to the ocean.

The seven boys and three girls were from Woodacre, San Anselmo and Fairfax.

Session Reset

Loch Lomond Home Owners Association's annual membership meeting to elect new officers, scheduled last night, was postponed to 8 p.m. Wednesday in San Pedro School, reported S. F. Bennett, president.

SUPERINTENDENT ON FIRING LINE?

Mill Valley Trustees Set Closed Session; Counsel Questions Legality

Mill Valley School District Supt. James A. Collins, hired only last July, may be under fire by district trustees — who have called a closed meeting at 8 p.m. tomorrow.

The agenda of the special closed meeting has only one subject, "evaluation and review — superintendent," but Dr. Collins told the Independent-Journal that the meeting was being closed to the public to renegotiate his $18,500-a-year salary.

ILLEGAL SESSION?

If Dr. Collins is right, the meeting will be illegal under the state's anti-secret meeting law, the Ralph M. Brown Act. This law allows closed meetings only to consider the appointment, employment or dismissal of a public officer or employee — "or to hear complaints or charges against such officer or employee."

Deputy County Counsel Thomas G. Hendricks confirmed that the Mill Valley trustees could not legally discuss Dr. Collins' salary in a meeting closed to the public. However, he said they probably could hold a closed meeting to evaluate his performance "because there might be charges brought up." Applying the Brown Act exemptions to evaluate an employee's performance "falls into a grey area" of the act, Hendricks conceded.

He added that he knew of no charges brought against Dr. Collins.

The meeting resulted from a suggestion "that in view of the great satisfaction with the superintendent and his programs that a salary raise would be in order," board chairman Joseph Bodovitz said. Dr. Collins' salary, however, would not be discussed "in view of the county counsel's suggestion."

A third version of the purpose of the meeting was offered to the Independent-Journal by trustee Joyce R. Gross. She said the meeting had been called by the trustees to re-negotiate Collins' four-year contract for another four years.

WITHIN ACT

"This would bring it within the Brown Act because it would be a hiring," she argued. She did not explain how the trustees could hire a man whose contract with them has more than three years to run.

Renewal of Dr. Collins' contract would carry his term well beyond the current terms of all of the present trustees. State law does not require any contract for elementary school district superintendents.

Dr. Collins said the meeting would conform to the exemptions under the Brown Act because "it's in part evaluative."

The board would take no action at the meeting, Collins said.

RELIGION'S SLOW DANCE BROKEN UP

Patrolman Leland J. Ahern of the San Rafael police went out to 8 Dias Way yesterday when the resident there, Alice Lee Brockmann, reported there was a young woman "moving about in a slow, strange manner" in the foothills west of her house.

Ahern said it was Sharon Leeds, a 20-year-old San Franciscan, who explained it was part of her religious meditation, which Ahern translated as "Tal Pei."

"It requires her to move about in a free, but very slow manner, sometimes leaping through the air," Ahern reported. He said he told Miss Leeds it might be best for her to stop it, and Miss Leeds said she was sorry if she had alarmed anyone in the neighborhood.

Car Test Wreck Critical To Teen

Three Terra Linda youths were injured, one critically, last night when the driver lost control of a car he was running in second gear on Manuel Freitas Parkway in Terra Linda, to test the transmission.

The parkway was slick from rain and San Rafael police said the car lost traction in its rear wheels and crashed through a brick retaining wall of the bridge at Las Pavadas Avenue, plunging nose down into a drainage ditch beneath the bridge. The rear wheels remained on the pavement.

Kenneth E. McLean, 17, of 537 Montecillo Road, Terra Linda, was critically injured. He suffered a fractured pelvis, multiple cuts and bruises, and was reported in poor condition today at Marin General Hospital, where he was in the intensive care unit.

Peter L. Valerio, 17, of 55 DeFord Drive, the driver, was treated for cuts and bruises at Marin General Hospital, and released.

The third youth, Donald V. Orsaw, 18, of 48 Fowler Court was taken to Kaiser Hospital in San Francisco, where he was reported in satisfactory condition today, suffering from a fractured hip.

Police said McLean had recently purchased the car from Valerio and had noticed some difficulty in the transmission that he wanted to demonstrate to Valerio.

The driver had driven the car in second gear to the west end of the parkway after a rain last night and was retruning east to Highway 101 when the car went out of control, according to San Rafael police.

Orsaw and Valerio were thrown from the car and McLean was taken from beneath it by police.

Dixie Trustees Study Non-Tenure Hiring

The Dixie School District Board of Trustees met for about two hours last night in closed session to discuss contract renewals for 80 of the 197 teachers in the school district.

The 80 are those still on three years' probationary status and do not have tenure. Individual teachers will be notified in April whether or not their contracts will be renewed, said Supt. Dennie B. Willis.

National Merit Tests Saturday At Redwood

The National Merit Scholarhsip qualifying test will be given at Redwood High School from 8 a.m. to noon Saturday in the student center.

Robert Herrell, counselor, said about 200 students are expected to compete. The top one-half per cent of students in the state then will take further tests to determine winners of the college scholarships, school officials said.

To Juvenile Court

Scott Wayne Burton, 18, of Santa Venetia, was certified from Marin Municipal Court to juvenile court yesterday to face a charge of possessing marijuana Feb. 10 on the Grady Brothers Ranch in Marinwood.

Youths Deny Two Killings In Trailer

Johnny Lee Sommerhalder, 24, and Kenneth Allen Preston, 20, denied in Marin Superior Court yesterday that they murdered Curtis and Shirley Ackley in their Santa Venetia house trailer Jan. 12.

The two Santa Rosa men, members of a motorcycle gang called the Grim Reapers, entered straight pleas of innocence and trial was set for the week of April 15.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson told Harold J. Truett of the public defender's office that he can return to court Monday if he wishes to enter an additional plea for Sommerhalder.

Truett complained that he has not had sufficient time to study the case for possible entry of other pleas.

FREEDOM DENIED

Judge Harold J. Haley of Superior Court had previously ordered that the pleas be entered after he denied motions by Sommerhalder and Preston that they be released for insufficiency of evidence.

Edwin Verzyl, attorney for Preston, argued that Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales had not shown at the preliminary hearing that the murder even occurred in Marin County.

Nor was there enough evidence presented to hold Sommerhalder and Preston for trial, claimed the attorneys.

Bales said the testimony of Suzanne Mulkey, daughter of Mrs. Ackley, was enough to hold both men to answer for the double murder.

TESTIMONY HINTED

Bales and the defense attorneys intimated in oral arguments that Mrs. Mulkey testified at the closed preliminary hearing about a conversation with Sommerhalder and Preston the day after the murder in Preston's home.

Another witness, they said, placed Sommerhalder in a car driving north on Highway 101 in Marin shortly after the murder. He had a blonde passenger, said Bales. Preston is blonde.

Judge Haley ordered that the written motions by Verzyl and Truett be sealed from public inspection, saying they refer to sections of the preliminary hearing transcript, previously sealed by himself and Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. of Municipal Court.

Anti-Tobacco Clinic In Novato

A free, five-day, public stop-smoking clinic will start at 7:30 p.m. Sunday at the Bank of Marin at Grant Avenue and Fourth Street in Novato, sponsored by the Seventh-Day Adventist Church.

"At a recent clinic in San Rafael, 60 per cent of those attending had quit smoking by the fifth day and almost all had cut their smoking down to one or two cigarettes a day," said Rev. Mauritz Peterson, director of the clinic.

Colored movies showing life saving surgical removal of cancerous human lungs will be presented to provide an insight into the dangers of smoking, Peterson said.

Six More Take Out Nomination Papers

Six more persons have taken out nomination papers at the county elections department for the June 4 primary election.

They are Michael J. Anthony, Democratic Central Committee, second district; Gary W. Thomas, Democratic Central Committee, first district; Grant J. Halsing, Republican Central Committee, second district; Edwin V. Grundstrom, Novato Sanitary District No. 6; Jesse E. Berry Sr., director, Marin City Community Services District, and Peter A. Ribar, director, Sanitary District No. 1.

Driver Fined $200

Paul Thomas O'Pizzi, 51 of 12 Eagle Drive, Novato, was fined $200 and placed on probation for six months in Marin Municipal Court yesterday for driving while intoxicated Nov. 9 on Highway 101.

CONTEMPORARY

We have a dream home in lovely Fairhills of San Rafael. Custom designed by Henry Hill, it features 5 bedrooms, and maid's quarters. As you would expect there are both a family room and a dining room. One outdoor area includes heated and filtered pool, cabana and large patio. The other outdoor area, off the children's wing of the house, is an enclosed play area. The screened-in lanai provides a lovely inside-outside area. The designer has used glass for maximum enjoyment of the view and to frame in the outdoors.

REGISTRATION: Coupon bonds will be issued by said Board of Supervisors on behalf of said School District. Such bonds are registrable only as to both principal and interest.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE: Said bonds were authorized by more than two-thirds of the voters voting at an election held in said District on June 13, 1967 and will be issued and sold for the purpose of raising money for authorized school purposes.

SECURITY: The bonds are general obligations of said School District, and said Board of Supervisors has power and is obligated to levy ad valorem taxes for the payment of said bonds and the interest thereon upon all property within said School District, subject to taxation by said School District (except certain personal property, which is taxable at limited rates), without limitation of rate or amount.

TAX EXEMPT STATUS: In the event that prior to the delivery of the bonds the income received by private holders from bonds of the same type and character shall be declared to be taxable under any Federal Income Tax laws, either by the terms of such laws or by ruling of a Federal Income Tax authority or official which is followed by the Internal Revenue Service or by the decision of any Federal Court, the successful bidder may at his option prior to the tender of said bonds by the Board of Supervisors, be relieved of his obligation under the contract to purchase the bonds, and in such case, the deposit accompanying his bid will be returned.

LEGAL OPINION: The legal opinion of the following firm, approving the validity of said bonds, will be furnished to the successful bidder without charge: Orrick, Herrington, Rowley & Sutcliffe of San Francisco, California. A copy of the legal opinion certified by the official in whose office the original is filed will be printed on each bond without charge to the successful bidder.

TERMS OF SALE

HIGHEST BIDDER: The bonds will be awarded to the highest responsible bidder or bidders considering the interest rate or rates specified and the premium offered, if any. The highest bid will be determined by deducting the amount of the premium bid (if any) from the total amount of interest which the District would be required to pay from the date of said bonds to the respective maturity dates thereof at the coupon rate or rates specified in the bid and the award will be made on the basis of the lowest net interest cost to the district. The lowest net interest cost shall be computed on a 360-day year basis. The purchaser must pay accrued interest from the date of the bonds to the date of delivery. The cost of printing the bonds will be borne by the district.

RIGHT OF REJECTION: Said Board of Supervisors reserves the right in its discretion to reject any and all bids and to waive any irregularity or informality in any bid.

PROMPT AWARD: The Board of Supervisors will take action awarding the bonds or rejecting all bids not later than 24 hours after the expiration of the time herein prescribed for receipt of proposals; provided that the award may be made after the expiration of the specified time if the bidder shall not have given the Board of Supervisors notice in writing of the withdrawal of such proposal.

PROMPT DELIVERY AND PAYMENT: Delivery of said bonds will be made to the successful bidder at the office of the County Treasurer of said County as soon as the bonds can be prepared, which it is estimated will be within 30 days from the day of sale. Payment of the purchase price must be made in funds immediately available to the County Treasurer in San Rafael, California.

RIGHT OF CANCELLATION: The successful bidder shall have the right, at his option, to cancel the contract of purchase if the bonds are not tendered for delivery within 60 days from the date of sale thereof, and in such event, the successful bidder shall be entitled to return of the deposit accompanying his bid.

FORM OF BID: All bids must be for not less than all of the bonds hereby offered for sale, and for not less than the par value thereof and accrued interest to date of delivery. Such bids, together with bidder's check, must be enclosed in a sealed envelope addressed to the Board of Supervisors of said County, and endorsed "Proposal for School Bonds of Mill Valley School District of Marin County."

BID CHECK: With each bid must be submitted a certified check or cashier's check for $5,000.00, drawn on a bank or trust company transacting business in the State of California, payable to the order of the County Treasurer, to secure said school district from any loss resulting from the failure of the bidder to comply with the terms of his bid. In addition, bidders are requested (but not required) to supply an estimate of the total net interest cost to the district on the basis of their respective bids, which shall be considered as informative only and not binding on either the bidder or the district. Checks of the unsuccessful bidders will be returned by the County Clerk by mail upon the award of the bonds. No interest will be paid upon deposit made by any bidder.

There is no controversy or litigation pending concerning the validity of the above issue, the corporate existence of said district or the title of the officers to their respective offices and the Board of Supervisors will deliver to the successful bidder a no-litigation certificate certifying to the foregoing as of and at the time of the delivery of the bonds.

Thoresen Is Facing More Arms Counts

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Millionaire gun collector William E. Thoresen and his wife have again been indicted by a federal grand jury on charges of illegal interstate transportation of firearms and ammunition.

Thoresen, 30, son of a Chicago steel company president, and his wife, Louise, 31, were arrested last spring after a raid on their Pacific Heights mansion. Federal agents seized 77 tons of arms, including a cannon, submarine guns and antitank guns.

The Thoresens were subsequently indicted on 22 counts of illegal possession of weapons and failure to register them. But the recent Haines decision of the U.S. Supreme Court declared unconstitutional federal laws requiring registration of illegal guns because such registration would constitute self-incrimination.

The new indictment issued yesterday contained 10 counts and said it was illegal for Thoresen to transport various weapons interstate because he had previously been convicted of a crime punishable by imprisonment for more than one year. This referred to a theft conviction in Maine in 1959.

The indictment alleged that Mrs. Thoresen illegally transported weapons because at the time of the San Francisco incident she was under indictment in New York on other gun charges.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Bell's Palsy Often Responds To Treatment With Hormones

VAN DELLEN

Bell's palsy is weakness or paralysis of the muscles on one side of the face. The mouth droops, the eye cannot close, and it is impossible to whistle, sneer, blow out the cheek, or wrinkle the forehead.

The face looks lopsided because the unparalyzed muscles pull the face toward that side.

In elderly persons, all muscles on the affected side sag.

Food may lodge in the cheeks because the chewing muscle is weakened.

TEARS RUN down the face and saliva oozes from the drooping corner of the mouth. There may also be some tenderness below the ear and occasionally there is slight deafness and ringing of the affected side.

There is no loss of sensation.

Predicting the outcome is difficult during the first few days.

We know that nine of 10 sufferers respond to conservative treatment with ACTH and other cortisone-like hormones.

MORE THAN HALF recover completely and 30 per cent are left with slight residuals. These are detected on careful examination but are not noticeable or disabling.

If any voluntary movements return within five days, recovery can be expected. Beyond this, electrical tests on the nerve and muscles are needed to determine whether the nerve is recovering, remaining the same, or deteriorating.

THE NERVE becomes pinched as it passes through the bony canal in the skull on its way to the muscles of the face. The bone cannot expand to allow room for the swollen nerve resulting in injury to the fibers.

ACTH reduces the swelling. In 10 per cent, the nerve remains "dead," but in many individuals, the only clew (other than electrical tests) that this has happened is an imparied sense of taste.

Surgical decompression may prevents this, but success is not guaranteed.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

LIVER BIOPSY

P. D. writes: My mother had jaundice due to a diseased gallbladder, which was removed. During the operation the surgeon sliced off a piece of her liver and sent it to the laboratory for testing. Why did he do this?

REPLY

There is no better way to examine the liver than via microscopic study of its cells (biopsy). The purpose in your mother's case was to determine whether the liver was damaged by the gall bladder disorder and whether the liver played a role in producing jaundice.

RUBBING ALCOHOLISM?

G. H. P. writes: I am 59 years old and do not smoke or drink. Will rubbing my legs, arms, and neck with alcohol have any effect upon my kidneys or get into the bloodstream? I was told that rubbing my body with alcohol could cause kidney trouble and make me an alcoholic. P. S. I do this three times a day.

REPLY

There is no need for concern because too little is absorbed to have the usual effects that follow the ingestion of alcohol.

EXERCISE FOR HYPERTENSIVE

A reader writes: Is exercise safe for a person with high blood pressure?

REPLY

Yes, if exercise does not produce symptoms or cause overfatigue. Each person must determine his own tolerance to physical exertion.

SIGHT AND DYSTROPHY

M. E. O. wrtes: Does muscular dystrophy cause blindness?

No. The muscles of the eye may be affected, but not vision.

TV REVIEW

Third Reich Trilogy Has Fine Start

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The long-awaited, three-part documentary based on William L. Shirer's book, "The Rise and Fall of the Third Reich," began on ABC-TV last night with a sense of historic sweep. This first hour will be followed tomorrow and Saturday by the other two broadcasts of the trilogy.

The story of Nazi Germany has been attempted many times by television documentarians, but the latest project has in executive producer Mel Stuart a man who can imbue a major video subject with a feel of grand purpose. He has done it with "The Making of the President" television programs. And for "The Rise and Fall of the Third Reich," his collaboration with the able producer-director Jack Kaufman seems potent.

MANY SOURCES

Much of the material, of course, is familiar, but the monumental research conducted for the three-part broadcast was evident in part last night in the collection of data from many sources, including interviews from several persons who knew Adolf Hitler.

The program showed how even a civilized nation can be led to disaster when the lie becomes an instrument of government. And it illustrated anew how the nation did indeed support Hitler in his early success, despite the countless disclaimers later on by Germans who said they really weren't for him, or didn't know what was going on, or were forced to go along with him.

This first hour focused on Hitler's rise to power, and included remarks from Shirer himself. The first-rate script was by Theodore Strauss, and the sharp editing by John Soh. Richard Basehart was the narrator, and Lalo Schifrin composed and conducted the music.

WOLPER EVENT

"The Rise and Fall of the Third Reich" was a Wolper Production, and so was another ABC-TV documentary last oceanographer Jacques Cousof undersea adventures with oceanographer Jacques Cousteau, "The Savage World of the Coral Jungle." The first program dealt with sharks, and this second effort was no less poetic and visually stunning in its look at the beautiful but dangerous community life in the coral reefs of the Indian Ocean and Red Sea.

A third Wolper program also showed up on ABC-TV last night, "Monte Carlo . . . C'est La Rose," an hour musical tour of Monaco with Princess Grace as hostess and guide. The princess finally relaxed on television and was not only breathtakingly beautiful but quite charming as well. The hour, meanwhile, was a reasonably pleasant diversion, except for some strained material by Terry-Thomas. French singers Gilbert Becaud and Francoise Hardy were the chief contributors to the pleasure.

CHARGES CASE OF RACISM

Singer Harry Belafonte has charged that an auto firm's representative and a major advertising agency threatened to cancel a television special because his co-star, British singer Petula Clark, touched him during the finale of the show. "It was the most outrageous case of racism I have ever seen in this business," Belafonte said yesterday. Involved were representatives of Chrysler Plymouth and the Young and Rubicam Agency of New York. Later Plymouth said it was "very happy with the show." (UPI Telephotos)

Broadcasters Plea For Less Candidate Coverage Checks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A House subcommittee today showed little inclination toward approving the request of U.S. broadcasters for less regulation of their coverage of candidates and public issues.

The requests were made before the Special Subcommittee on Investigations of the House Commerce Committee during two days of discussions by a panel of 21 broadcast experts on the role of radio and television in shaping public opinion.

The discussions focused on two regulations administered by the Federal Communications Commission (FCC): The requirement that stations offer "equal time" to competing candidates, and the "fairness doctrine" requiring broadcasters to afford reasonable opportunity for the presentation of contrasting views on major public issues.

When it was over, the Congressmen had been saturated with contrasting views.

Ranking Republican Rep. William L. Springer, Ill., sized up the majority of the committee as feeling both regulations had worked well in the public interest. He doubted that a vote could be obtained to abandon either one.

Support for the regulations was voiced by a majority of the attorneys, professors and other panelist s with knowledge of broadcasting, including Mrs. Harriet Pilpel, head of the American Civil Liberties Union's Committee on Communications Media.

They argued generally that the regulations were beneficial in promoting a diversity of views over the public air waves.

Those with a direct interest in broadcasting, however, generally opposed one or both of the regulations on grounds they actually restricted coverage of candidates and issues.

Vincent T. Wasilewski, president of the National Association of Broadcasters, said the fairness doctrine made broadcasters hesitant to delve into controversy and further, that it violated the right of freedom of the press.

Network officials urged a six-year trial suspension of the equal time requirement and said it would enable them to give broader coverage of major candidates without worrying so much about a bevy of third party contenders.

Tougher Protection Voted For Investors

SACRAMENTO (AP) —The Assembly voted 48-20 yesterday for a "drastic revision" of the law regulating sales of stocks and bonds in California.

The bill would exempt some corporations from close state regulation but would emphasize "protection of investors," said Assemblyman John T. Knox, D-Richmond, author of the measure.

The legislation is the first major revision of the state corporate securities law since the reform administration of Gov. Hiram Johnson in 1917.

At that time the state adopted the so-called "blue sky" laws to keep companies from attracting unlimited investment without a solid financial footing.

The Assembly rejected amendments to Knox's bill proposed by Atty. Gen. Thomas C. Lynch. The amendments would have spelled out types of fraud and reduced the exemption for companies with only a small portion of share-holders in California.

But Knox said, "Mr. Lynch authorized me to say he is in general over-all support of this legislation.

When the Assembly Judiciary Committee approved the bill, Knox and Assistant Atty. Gen. Herbert E. Wenig argued vigorously with the Assemblyman calling Wenig "a liar."

Wenig had said the bill reduces protection for stockholders.

Exemptions from regulations would include small corporations with up to five investors and companies listed on the New York Stock Exchange. The exchange "has stronger requirements than California has ever had," Knox said.

The law "has been in need of drastic revision for many years," Knox said. "This would allow the corporations commissioner to spend his time with protection of investors."

Knox also said that under his bill, the commissioner could suspend trading in any stock, including those listed on the New York exchange.

Religious Transformation Held In Captain's Trial

CANNON AFB, N. M. (UPI) —Air Force Capt. Dale Noyd, "conscientious objector" to the Vietnam war, underwent a religious transformation while teaching at the Air Force Academy, a defense attorney told Noyd's court martial today.

"He was no longer the same man as when he accepted his commission," the attorney said.

Noyd was expected to take the stand later in his military trial on charges of refusing to help train a Vietnam-bound pilot.

The Air Force rested its case against the 34-year-old former fighter pilot after calling three witnesses yesterday.

The court martial was unusual in the military jurisprudence. It came after a long effort by Noyd in the civil courts to get out of the Air Force. He was told by the U.S. Supreme Court to try military avenues first.

Marvin Larpatkin, a civilian lawyer named by the American Civil Liberties Union to help in the defense, said Noyd "underwent a fundamental change of life" in the fall of 1966—a year before he was transferred from the Air Force Academy to a fighter plane group at Cannon.

"In earlier times this would have been called a religious experience. He was no longer the same man as when he accepted his commission," Karpatkin said.

The windowless, 39-seat courtroom was jammed today for the first time since the trial started Tuesday. Noyd's brother and sister-in-law and a number of base personnel were on hand —apparently to hear him testify.

Teen-Agers Held In Auto Theft

Two teen-agers were booked into Marin County Jail yesterday for investigation of auto theft after Sausalito police stopped them in a 1968 Volkswagen reported stolen earlier in San Rafael.

Sgt. Robert D. Malkin spotted the car on Alexander Street at 4:40 p.m. and gave chase. Malkin and Sgt. James R. Nunes halted the car, registered to James A. Graham of 7 Windward Road, Belvedere, at the north entry to the Golden Gate Bridge.

Driving was Paul Wing Wong, 19, of 505 Magnolia Avenue, Larkspur. His passenger was Carter Paul Yuen, 18, of San Francisco.

Wong and Yuen were held in lieu of $1,150 bail each and were to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Western Roads Report Slated

Albert Solnit, chief of advance planning for the county planning department, will discuss "Transportation Planning for West Marin" at tonight's meeting of the Marin Citizens Transportation Committee.

The meeting is set for 8 o'clock in Room 413 of the Civic Center.

Richard Gable, public relations chairman for the committee, said the following items are also on the agenda:

A proposed plan for a road network for Central and West Marin by Harold Gregg of San Geronimo.

Subcommittee reports on the status of committee recommendations on Shoreline Highway 17 and public transit in general.

700 Pound Haul Of Marijuana

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Seven hundred pounds of marijuana was seized at San Francisco International Airport yesterday by federal agents, who said it apparently is being shipped in by the ton for the city's hippie colony.

Terry Joseph Wing, 27, a bearded Burlingame father of two, was arrested by narcotics agents after he picked up the marijuana sacks at the airport. He was arraigned on charges of transporting drugs, and the U.S. commissioner set bail at $10,000.

Daniel Casey, agent in charge of the San Francisco narcotics office, said the 700 pounds of marijuana seized was less than half of an air shipment sent from Houston, Tex.

Pentagon Speaks Up On Pep Pills

WASHINGTON (AP) —The Defense Department said in a statement that stimulant drugs are included in Air Force and special forces survival kits in Vietnam. But it said use of the stimulant is not widespread.

The statement was issued yesterday in reply to testimony Tuesday by John Steinbeck IV, a Vietnam veteran and son of the Pulitzer prize-winning author, that stimulants called amphetamines are popular with U.S. servicemen in Vietnam.

"Mr. Steinbeck's testimony as to the popularity of the drug with combat soldiers cannot be substantiated," the Pentagon said.

The statement, embodying information furnished by the U.S. command in Saigon, said Air Force and Special Forces survival kits contain the stimulant in the form of five milligram tablets of dextroamphetamine.

"The use of the tablet in survival kits is to aid the individual in his attempt to escape and evade the enemy," the statement said.

Survival kits used by the Army, Navy and Marines do not contain amphetamines, the statement said.

Anti-Vietnam Draftee Beaten

OAKLAND (AP)—An antiwar draftee arrived at the Oakland Military Induction Center yesterday with blood on his clothes and a bruise beneath his eye.

Mardie Louis Clark, 20, Berkeley, said others among the 40 draftees on the bus beat him up en route from Santa Rosa after he started to pass out anti-Vietnam war literature.

They were in a "decidedly ugly mood," Clark said.

He refused to enter the induction center. He burned papers outside and then went to Herrick Hospital for treatment of minor injuries.

Copper Sessions

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Industry and union officials met today with government representatives for the third straight day of intensive bargaining seeking a solution to the long copper strike.

Legalities Stall Merger Hearing

The proposed merger of the Bolinas Fire Protection District with the Bolinas Community Public Utilities District will get a delayed public hearing before the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

The hearing had been scheduled for 3 p.m. next Tuesday, but it was deleted from the agenda because legal requirements for publishing notices of the hearing could not be met in time, Assistant Administrator John F. Barrow announced today.

Barrows said the hearing on the proposed merger will be reset, probably in April.

San Francisco Teachers' Poll Stalled By Mail Error

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The preference poll among San Francisco's teachers over which of two organizations they want to represent them has hit a snag.

The poll is part of an agreement which ended a one-day strike by about a third of the city's teachers. They are being asked whether they want the American Federation of Teachers or the rival San Francisco Classroom Teachers Association to represent them.

Although the poll is informal, both sides have been campaigning for votes.

The office of Mayor Joseph Alioto said that some of the original ballots were sent to administrators, cafeteria workers and janitors. New ballots were sent yesterday to teachers.

Two mediators appointed by Alioto meanwhile met with officials of the union, the association and the school department on implementing the union's major strike demands. They have a deadline of May 30.

In Oakland, meanwhile, the Oakland Education Association, which represents most of the city's 2,700 teachers, planned a mass meeting today to take a strike vote.

The city board of education refused to meet directly with Arnold Erickson, executive director of the association, earlier this week.

Innocent Pleas To Drug Possession

Two Pennsylvania brothers pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court yesterday to felony charge of possessing marijuana and striking a bailiff from the sheriff's office in the county sourthouse Monday.

Preliminary hearing for Andrew Lee Charne, 18, and Alan Bruce Charne, 21, both of Elkins Park, Pa., was set for March 19.

Trio Indicted In Bank Card Theft

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Three persons have been indicted on charges of stealing credit cards from the mail and selling them back to the Bank of America for finder's fees totaling $7,000.

Bookstore operator William R. Grady, 30, and George S. Louie, 21, were accused of having BankAmericards known to have been taken from letters.

San Francisco postoffice clerk Fayetta K. Hardin, 23, was charged with stealing the cards from the mail and delivering them to Grady and Louie.

Sadecki Gets Chance In Giant 'Opener'

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Ray Sadecki, who insists he needs hard work early in the year, is scheduled to open the Cactus League season for the San Francisco Giants against the Chicago Cubs at Scottsdale, Ariz.,

The Giants moved here from Casa Grande yesterday to complete their spring training and play their home exhibition games.

Sadecki said "I need lots of work to get in shape. I'm a slow starter. I missed a lot of potential starts last year. I hope to make the starting rotation and stay there."

Last season, Sadecki didn't start until May 19 and lasted just one-third of an inning, in which he gave one hit, one walk, and one run, struck out one batter and was hurt by one error. On June 25, he lasted five innings.

On June 28 he beat St. Louis, 9-1 with a seven-hitter, struggled to a 6-6 record through August —then finished spectacularly 6-0 in September for a 12-6 season. He finally had begun to live up to the potential which prompted the Giants to send first baseman Orlando Cepeda to the Cards for him.

Presumably, Manager Herman Franks plans to use the left-hander only a couple of innings, for he has nominated four other pitchers to work the game. They are right-handers Ron Herbel, 4-5; Lindy McDaniel, 2-6 and rookies Nestor Chavez and Hal Jeffcoat.

Franks planned to use this batting order against the Cubs: Ron Hunt, 2b; Jim Davenport, 3b; Willie Mays, cf; Willie McCovey, 1b; Jim Ray Hart, lf; Jesus Alou or Ollie Brown, rf; Hal Lanier, ss, and Dick Dietz, c.

Alou hasn't signed and may not be started for that reason. He'd like to play, as evidenced by his daily workouts with the squad, but said "I gotta get money" to sign.

Weak-Hitting A's Are Getting More Batting Practice

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP) — New Manager Bob Kennedy gets a game's eye view of the new-to-Oakland Athletics here tomorrow when they host the Detroit Tigers in their first Grapefruit League exhibition of 1968.

He named Jim "Catfish" Hunter, Tony Pierce and Chuck Dobson to pitch. Hunter, 13-17, and Dobson, 10-10 last season, are right-handers. Pierce, 3-4, is a southpaw.

Detroit Manager Mayo Smith was expected to call on right-handers Denny McLain, 17-16; Joe Sparma, 16-9, and Pat Dobson, 1-2. Dobson, not related to the A's Chuck Dobson, was 4-1 with Toledo in the American Association before going to Detroit at the end of the season.

STARTERS

Kennedy named this starting lineup and said it might be his batting order as well: Bert Campaneris, ss; John Donaldson, 2b; Sal Bando, 3b; Ramon Webster, 1b; Dan Cater, lf; Reggie Jackson, rf; Mike Hershberger, of and Dave Duncan, c.

A big surprise was the absence of Rick Monday, one of the A's off-season goodwill ambassadors around Northern California, who played in yesterday's intrasquad game. Rick came out of that contest with a slightly strained groin muscle and was rated doubtful against Detroit.

For the Tigers, Al Kaline and Mickey Stanley were doubtful. They have influenza. Jim Northrup was expected to go to centerfield and rookie Wayne Comer into right.

CHANGES

Kennedy said he probably would make lineup changes after the fifth inning to get a look at more A's. He'd never seen most of them until he opened training camp.

The 10:30 a.m. game will inaugurate San Francisco radio station KNBR's broadcasts of all Athletics games this season, including exhibitions.

Joe DiMaggio's squad won yesterday's intrasquad game from the Luke Applings, 1-0, on second inning singles by Joe Keough and Bill McNulty, Monday's dropped fly and Tony Larussa's foreceout.

The DiMags got only four hits and the Applings three for totals of only nine each in their two games. Appling won Tuesday, 8-0 with the aid of four errors.

Kennedy was so unhappy with the poor hitting that he cancelled today's intrasquad game and ordered extensive hitting practice.

Montreal Blanks Seals

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Kings, eyeing first place in the National Hockey League's West Division, and the Oakland Seals, making a last-ditch bid for a playoff berth, clash tonight in the Forum. The 8 o'clock game will be televised on channel 2.

With 12 games remaining the Kings are in third place, just one point behind the Minnesota North Stars and four behind the Philadelphia Flyers.

The Seals, with 10 games left, are last in the six-team division, nine points behind Pittsburgh and 13 in back of the St. Louis Blues who now occupy the fourth and last playoff spot.

EVEN

In their seven meetings this season, the Kings and Seals have each won three games with one tie.

Oakland, which had gone without a loss in five straight games, had its streak snapped last night as it dropped a 2-0 decision to the Canadiens.

Montreal goalie Lorne Worsley had a lot to do with it but luck played a factor.

90-FOOTER

In the first period Henri Richard lobbed the puck towards the Oakland net from center ice. The 90-foot shot bounced in front of goalie Gary Smith who tried to kick it away. He failed and the puck skittered between his legs and into the net.

Ralph Backstrom scored Montreal's other goal in the second period, taking a pass from Claude Provost who had stolen the puck from Oakland's George Swarbrick.

First period—1, Montreal, Richard 9, 7:46. Penalties—G. Tremblay 3:18.
Second period—2, Montreal, Backstrom 16 (Provost) 1:10. Penalties—None.
Third period—None. Penalties—Ferguson 1:11; Cournoyer 6:23; Swarbrick 12:37.

The farm is part of the racing string operated by Canadian horseman E. P. Taylor.

JACK HANLEY

Hiatt Being Realistic About Catcher's Job

PHOENIX, Ariz. — Jack Hiatt would like nothing more than to be regular catcher of the Giants. But, being a realistic fellow, Hiatt once again brought three gloves to spring training — a catcher's mitt, first baseman's glove and one for the outfield.

"I'd love to catch," said Hiatt. "I've always wanted to be a catcher in the big leagues. But let's face it, I would have to admit the others are better defensively than me."

Did Hiatt mean he was conceding the job to Bob Barton and Dick Dietz?

"Not at all," said Hiatt. "I'm sure Herman Franks hasn't made up his mind yet. But what will hinder me this spring is my first baseman's glove. I'll be relieving Willie McCovey in the late innings of the exhibition games.

Not Much Opportunity

"That isn't going to give me much opportunity to use my catcher's mitt when the job now is up for grabs. As long as Tom Haller was our catcher I didn't have much opportunity."

Trade of Haller to the Dodgers for Ron Hunt and Nate Oliver didn't weaken the Giatns at catching as much as it strengthened them at second base, according to Hiatt.

"Haller wasn't a strong defensive catcher for us," said Hiatt. "Barton will be. He is one of the best defensive catchers I've ever seen. It's possible Dietz and myself will start games this season behind the plate with Barton finishing up."

That's possible but it is more likely Hiatt again will be backup man for McCovey coupled with pinch hitting duties. He filled both roles admirably last season, even assuming emergency outfield assignments on a couple of occasions.

Hiatt appeared in 73 games last season during his first full year with the Giants. In only three of those games did he catch. And it wasn't until after the Cardinals had padlocked the pennant that Hiatt got three consecutive catching assignments late in September.

Very Valuable Fellow

However, Hiatt isn't heartbroken because he hasn't been given more opportunity behind the plate. He knows his role as a pinch hitter and utility glove man is important to the Giants.

Two of eight pinch hits by Hiatt last year were homers, one of them a grand slam July 31 off Elroy Face. The slammer, first of Hiatt's major league career, was one of five game-winning hits he contributed.

The Giants not only appreciate Hiatt's versatile baseball talents but also his ability with a microphone. He is a good dinner speaker. In fact, he does all right at breakfasts and lunches, too.

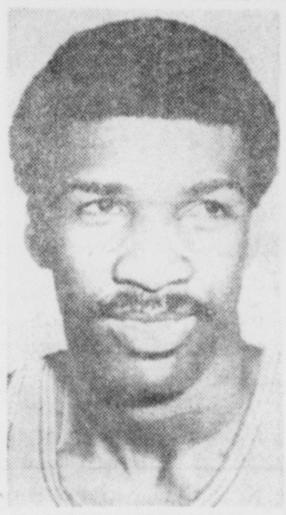
"From Nov. 1 to Feb. 12," said Hiatt, "I attended 65 dinners, lunches and breakfasts."

Ike's Brother Follows Lead

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) —Edgar Eisenhower, brother of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, sank a hole-in-one yesterday just one month after his famous brother collected his first ace on the same course.

The 79-year-old Tacoma, Wash., lawyer aced the par three, 130-yard 18th at Seven Lakes Country Club. It was the fourth hole-in-one of his golfing career.

Gen. Eisenhower carded his hole-in-one on the par three, 104-yard 13th hole last Feb. 6. The general spends the winters in a house along the 11th fairway of the El Dorado Country Club in nearby Palm Desert.



GEORGE REYNOLDS

Houston Starter Ineligible

HOUSTON (AP) — The top ranked University of Houston basketball team has lost the services of its starting guard in the upcoming NCAA playoffs.

George Reynolds was declared ineligible yesterday for postseason games.

Reynolds' problem stems from the number of hours accepted by Houston when the 6-4 playmaker transferred last fall from Imperial Valley Junior College. The school accepted less than the 48 required and this is the reason he will be ineligible.

NO TOURNEY

"Although there was no question about his eligibility for regular season play the number of semester hours accepted when he transferred will not permit him to play in the national tournament," the school announcement stated.

"Similar situations have prevented football and basketball players at other schools from participating in postseason competition in the past," the statement added.

Reynolds, a quick moving, sharp passing junior, led the team in assists with 157 and scored 280 points as the unbeaten Cougars wound up their regular season Monday night with a 28-0 record.

COACH'S SON

Vern Lewis, 5-11 son of Cougar head coach Guy Lewis will take over Reynolds' starting position in the playoffs.

Coach Lewis informed the players of the situation Tuesday afternoon although he learned of the official ruling last Friday.

"I wasn't sure of what effect it would have on the team so I elected to wait until after our regular season ended," Lewis said.

Bout Date Changed

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The 10-round bout between Gypsy Joe Harris and Manny Gonzalez, originally slated for March 18, has been postponed to Tues., March 19.

Exhibition Slate Gets Under Way

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The major league exhibition baseball season opened today with the New York Yankees opposing the Washington Senators at Pompano Beach, Fla.

Five more games are listed for tomorrow with the remainder of the 20 big league clubs swinging into action on Saturday. The regular season opens April 8 in both the National and American Leagues.

Mel Stottlemyre of the Yankees and Bill Denehy of the Senators were named as the starting pitchers for the opening game of the exhibition season. Stottlemyre had a 15-15 record last year while Denehy was 1-7 with the New York Mets and 3-3 with Jacksonville in 1967.

MANTLE

Slugger Mickey Mantle also is expected to be in the Yankee lineup, but like most of the other starters probably will play only a few innings.

There was good news for Cincinnati and Boston fans from the training camps yesterday. Pitcher Jim Maloney and outfielder Vada Pinson of the Reds signed their contracts.

Jim Lonborg of the Red Sox, winner of the Cy Young Award as the outstanding pitcher in the A.L. for 1967, had the cast removed from his right knee. It had been injured in a skiing accident near Lake Tahoe, Nev., last December.

The 22-game winner expects to be able to pitch before May 15 and asserted: "Skiing is out of my life in the foreseeable future."

REGULARS WIN

First baseman Wes Parker of the Dodgers smacked a triple and a single to lead the regulars over the Reserves in a Los Angeles intra-squad game yesterday at Vero Beach, Fla.

Joe Moock's two-run triple in the seventh gave the Joe Pignatanos a 6-4 victory over the Yogi Berras in the New York Mets' camp at St. Petersburg, Fla.

Catcher Johnny Stevenson banged out a triple, two doubles and a single in the Cubs' camp game at Scottsdale where Commissioner William D. Eckert was a spectator.

Leo Durocher, manager of the Cubs, was hit on the right knee by a line drive off the bat of catcher Randy Hundley in the pre-game drill.

PREP BASEBALL

Drake, Terra Linda, Tamalpais Triumph

Marin County Athletic League baseball teams came out on the top end of three of five non-league games played yesterday.

DRAKE opened its schedule with a 7-3 triumph over Sacred Heart in San Anselmo, led by Fred Westcott and mike Gaffney each with two hits.

TERRA LINDA beat Bishop O'Dowd 5-2 behind good pitching from Jerry Goodrick and two-run doubles off the bats of shortstop Dave Edson and third baseman Ken Lazzarini.

TAMALPAIS defeated Albany 4-2 in a game tat was called after four innings because of rain in Albany. Leftfielder Mike Einstein was having a grand time for Tam, collecting a double and triple, knocking in two runs and scoring two, and stealing two bases. Shortstop Robin Nelson had the other two Tam RBIs with a pair of singles.

NOVATO lost to Berkeley 8-7 at Berkeley, the Hornets committing a total of seven errors to give the game away. Gary Thomas, centerfielder, had two singles, third baseman Tom Thomas had a double, and Tom Zechlin and Don Grannucci each had triples. Novato pitchers Russ Dillon and Steve McNally are still nursing minor injuries and are out of the lineup.

SAN RAFAEL lost its opener, 6-1, a rain-shortened five-inning affair at Terra Nova High. First baseman Rafael Gallardo had two hits for the Bulldogs.

In Tennis Tourney

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Arthur Ashe and Charles Pasarell of the United States will compete in the international tennis tournament opening here March 19.

Sanders May Bounce Back In Doral Open

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Last year, Doug Sanders won the Doral Open Golf Tournament for the second time, and the $20,000 prize launched him on the biggest money winning spree of his career.

This year, after a slow start, the dapper Georgian could again make the Doral a spring board—if he can stand off George Knudson, the redhot Canadian, and Jack Nicklaus, who plays Doral's "Blue Monster" course more consistently then any other pro.

"I'M BACK"

"Now that I'm back in Florida," Sanders says, "I should be getting a little sharper."

Sanders, a former University of Florida player, needs the warm weather and the familiar course to get him off and running. In six tournaments so far on the winter tour, his best finish was a tie for 19th at Los Angeles. He has won only $5,300.

In 1967, a surprisingly happy development enabled Sanders to coast to victory here with bogeys on the last three holes. The opportunity came when Tommy Aaron, leading in the final round, collapsed with an unbelievable quadruple bogey on the ninth hole.

BIG YEAR

Sanders won no other tournaments during the year but took second in four and finished in the top 10 in nine others to win $109,455. He also took the 1965 Doral and went on to bank $72,182, his record at that time.

Knudson, the 30-year-old Toronto star who climbed to the top of this year's money winning list with successive victories in tournaments at Phoenix and Tucson, Ariz., was drawing big galleries here.

Billy Casper, the only two-time winner besides Sanders, skipped this year's Doral to entertain U.S. troops in Viet Nam. Arnold Palmer also is sitting this one out.

FAVORITE

That makes Nicklaus again a popular favorite. He has not won the tournament, but the long, demanding course is made to order for his powerful game, and his six-year average score of 70.7 tops that of all players, including Casper and Sanders.

In a pro-am warmup yesterday in calm sunshiny weather, the day's standout was Dudley Wysong, who shot a course-record eight-under-par 64. He hit 10 birdies and made two bogyes.

Frank Beard, Dick Sikes and Bruce Crampton came in with 66s in the warmup, touring the 7,028-yard course at six under par.

Sanders led the favorites with a 69. Nicklaus took a 71, and Knudson settled for 73.

Classy Field On Hand For Tournament Of Champs

By GARY TISCHLER

The eighty-some players who make up the basketball teams in the 1968 Tournament of Champions which begins in the Oakland Arena tonight have to be the classiest field in the tourney's fabled history.

At least they were until last Tuesday, when they may have lost one important member, Ansley Truitt.

All fabulous six feet, nine inches of him.

Truitt, the singulary striking guiding force behind Woodrow Wilson High School's unbeaten (24-0) team, suffered a severe sprained foot in a scrimmage.

Even with the services of a limping Truitt, the Warriors will be severely put upon to keep their favorites role in the tourney in their first trip to Northern California's closest equivalant to a state tourney.

LIONS VS. LAMBS

Even without Truitt, it will still be a hell of a tourney.

Like last year, the first round pits the lions against the lambs, but unlike last year, the lambs may not be ready for the slaughterhouse.

Last year, Granada, and Petaluma acted like definite patsies in the wrong stadium, with Newark and Hayward not far behind in the face of such competition as Fremont, Balboa and Berkeley.

This year, the giants are the top four seeds, headed by Wilson, returnee Berkeley — back for the third straight year — and McClymonds — back for an unprecedented 12th time — and Bishop O'Dowd, last year's top-ranked California prep tema.

They will pick on Newark, Montgomery, Hayward and Tamalpais of the Marin County Athletic League, respectively, in the first round.

There aren't too many patsies this year, unless it's tuba players.

PAIRINGS

Let's take a quick look at the first-round pairings in addition to the Tamalpais-O'Dowd scrap at 6 p.m.

The tourney opener is likely to turn out to be a battle of cripples.

Newark, which glumly tackled the prospect of the consolation route, may be even with the Warriors of Wilson if Truitt is out.

The Knights, who lost to Drake, 53-51, in last year's tourney opener, then beat Petaluma in double-overtime and lost to Hayward in the consolation finals, bring a record 78.3 scoring machine to the tourney, but it will be a machine with some of the motor missing.

HIGH-SCORING

The Knights lost high-scoring (16.2 average) guard Dennis Bettencourt for the season with a broken wrist and floor leader Newell Roche has been hampered by the flu.

But they do have Tom Lunceford, a fellow who knows where the bucket is and an all-TOC choice last year. He brings supremacy. Poly was the last a 27-point Mission Valley League average to the tourney and scored 31 points in Newark's 62-61 scalp-tingler over Livermore for the tourney berth last week.

BERNIE SCHNEIDER
Tamalpais coach

The Knights are not awfully fond of defense (61.2 points per game allowed) but when you score that many points, who gives a darn.

Wilson will be making its first trip to the tourney, bringing impressive credentials to the job, including the No. 2 ranking in the state and season victories over the three other prime contenders, O'Dowd, Berkeley and McClymonds.

WHOLE SHOW

Truitt is practically the whole show (22.5 average, 14 rebounds per game) but Larry Haren, a 6-1 forward, also averaged in double figures.

The Warriors, with or without Truitt, will be flying against a tradition of East Bay San Francisco Team to win a TOC title back in 1957.

Defensively, Wilson may be just the thing to stop Newark's go-go attack. They sport the tourney's best defensive average, a grim 45.6 pittance per game.

The Hayward Farmers, who hit a famine last year in the TOC after predictions of better things, expect to do a little better this year, although they did take the consolation title over a tired Newark team.

VS. McCLYMONDS

Unfortunately, they have to play McClymonds in the opener.

The Farmers, making their 5th TOC appearance, bring back three starting veterans from last year's team, including talented junior forward Warren Morese (16.3 average), veteran hot-shot guard Sandy Fry (19.4 average) and 6-4 forward John Mabray (15.9) for a balanced scoring attack.

The Farmers sport a good 69.2 scoring average but have the tourney's worst defensive showing (61.7) per game, not a good thing to own when playing McClymonds.

McClymonds, with the exception of the past two years, has practically owned the TOC, lock, stock and barrel. They will be making their 12th appearance, a record. They won the title two years in a row (1951-52) and own a streak of six straight titles running from 1958 to 1963. And they have a good chance to make it nine titles this time around.

TALLEST TEAM

The McClymonds Warriors are the tallest team, over-all, in the tourney, and bring in a 13-game winning streak. Easily the most talented performer on a squad that averages 6-4 is Nate Williams (16.7 scoring average, 14 rebounds per game) who led the Warriors to an unbeaten Oakland Athletic League season. McClymonds, with Williams out for 2½ games, lost to Wilson, O'Dowd and Berkeley but a healthy Williams could make all the difference.

Other players to watch are 6-4 guard Mike Webb and 6-4 forward Roy Brown, both averaging 12 points per game plus awesome 6-7 Herman Brown, a nine-point averager. The Warriors, 17-3, on the season, have averaged 77.3 points per game.

21-1 RECORD

Montgomery, champ of North Bay I, owns a 21-1 record, a 68.7 scoring average and a 50.2 defensive average. All of which may mean nothing when the Vikes go up against Berkeley in today's opening-round wind-up at 8:30 p.m.

Still, the Vikes can't be taken lightly. Their only loss was to Napa in the league opener, and since then they've won 11 straight. Tom Fitchie, a 5-11 junior guard has been the mainstay of the attack with a 21-point scoring average. He had help from Dwight Holiday at 16.2 and Steve Tiedeman at 13.9.

Berkeley (24-5), riding a 10-game win streak, is back to the TOC for the fifth time, and the third straight. The Yellow Jackets won in 1949.

They bring back a team almost identical to the one that finished third last year with a 50-40 win over Drake.

CHENIER

Marin County fans will remember the player most responsible for that victory. It was 6-2 guard Phil Chenier, an All-America candidate and a superb all-around player who can hit from anywhere on the court, including half-court, a great rebounder, driver and passer, and defender. In short he's fabulous, with a 22.2 average to boot.

Chenier alone might be enough but there's also Carl Shelton (13.9), Rich Nelson (12.5), Carl Dockery, a 6-6 center who scores at a 16.3 clip and Doug Kagawa, a 5-9 guard who tops the team in assists with 90.

It should be more than enough to derail Montgomery.

San Rafael Instructor Starting New Class On Hunter Safety

STEVENS

An interesting item of news came to my desk recently. Governor Reagan presented Walter T. Shannon, Director of the California Department of Fish and Game, an award for the department's outstanding achievement in hunter safety in 1967.

This makes the fourth consecutive year in which California has won one of the 10 national awards presented by the National Rifle Association, and the sixth such award since the DFG's hunter safety program was started in 1954.

I feel certain Shannon would agree that this outstanding record became possible because of the 3,000 volunteer instructors who have dedicated their time and effort to make it possible.

ONE OF THESE dedicated men is Jules Mantere of San Rafael. Jules is just finishing a class of 35 students which will be graduated March 16. He will start another class on Friday, March 22.

Considering that anyone under 16 must furnish proof that he has completed such a class before a license will be issued to him, and assuming that uncles, dads and big brothers would wish to have the youngster accompany him on the next shoot, he should contact Mantere to reserve a place in the next class.

SALMON TROLLING outside the gate has been in the doldrums the past few days. Most skippers of the sport fishing fleet didn't even bother to record their catch. One boat did, however. The Ma Ru out of Caruso's Sausalito spot recorded six salmon with a top weight of 26½ pounds.

Striper striving was a different story. To those chosen few it was fast and fancy on the flate north of the Pump House. Not all limits, of course, but a mighty high score for this time of the year.

CARL BENNETT of the Rodeo Marina reported fishing for either stripers or sturgeon as tops. One party boat returned to port with 11 sturgeon and five bass, all or most caught on shrimp. The north side of the ship channel, on the Flats, saw the fastest action. Lots of fish landed, and lots of them took shrimp baits. Biggest bass taken over the weekend was a 40-pound beauty by Ed Scott of Sacramento. Just oodles of nice fat flounders have come in, too.

I understand that one of the flounders went to five pounds. Lots of fish taken — lots of fish lost, and the run of flounders is very good.

Soviets May Join Boycott

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Olympic Committee indicated today it may boycott the summer Olympics in Mexico City Oct. 12-27 if South Africa is allowed to participate.

The Soviet committee passed a resolution, saying:

"If the International Olympic Committee refuses to convene an emergency session and insists on its decision about South Africa, the USSR Olympic Committee will be impelled to reconsider the question of participation of Soviet sportsmen in the summer Olympics of 1968."

The official Soviet news agency Tass announced that a meeting had taken place of the Soviet Union's Olympic Committee and the reentry of South Africa had been discussed at a bigger meeting involving representatives of the Soviet Sports Federation.

Cokes All Lined Up For Defending Title

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Welterweight champion Curtis Cokes launches a campaign on four defenses of his title when he fights Willie Ludick, the tall, handsome South African, here April 16.

That is, he will meet Stan Hayward, Jose Napoles and Raul Soriano in succession if he's successful against the southpaw from Johannesburg.

The reasons are that he wants revenge against the only man who ever knocked him out — Hayward, May 1, 1964, at Philadelphia—and to pile up some money real fast against Napoles, the No. 1 junior welterweight, and Soriano, who leaped into prominence by beating Ernie Lopez, the No. 1 welterweight contender.

Tour Newcomer Leads Bowlers In Tournament

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Dennis Swayda scattered 2,579 pins in the first 12 games yesterday to take the first-round lead in the $60,000 Miller Open Bowling Tournament.

Swayda—in his first full year on the Professional Bowlers Association tour—fired the biggest block of the day, a 1,392, in the afternoon and added a 1,187 in evening action.

Ernie Schlegel of New York rolled a 300 in his first night round, but didn't make the leaders. He will receive free beer for a year.

Veteran Bill Tucker of Los Angeles came in second, just three pins behind Swayda after the first day's action.

REP NOTES

Recalling Some TOC Highlights

By GARY TISCHLER

Memo to all the phoo-phooers of high school sports. Go to the 1968 Basketball Tournament of Champions in the Oakland Arena — today through Saturday — for something neither dull or useless.

The basketball, by high school standards, is excellent, but in the cavernous settings of the arena it can become something more than a ball cracking the nets.

Taken out of the cramped former quarters in Berkeley, the TOC has turned into a staged spectacle with all the fanfare of a minor athletic "Ben Hur."

CHEERING

The togetherness of former days has been lost, but the avid, colorful competition among the cheering sections is something to behold.

When you first walk into the arena, in which 3,000 spectators and cheerleaders of all stripes can get lost easily, the noise hits you like a windy slap. It is like walking right into a rock band from the confines of a soundproof booth. The effect can be unnerving.

There is something refreshing about a tournament like this, after watching gales of professional contests where dirty old money and professional pride are the watchwords.

CAN STILL CRY

There are all kinds of boys and kids here. Cheerleaders still cry, even in a smartly-polished, thousandpseater like this, where an individual can get lost and walk into the wrong entrance, the wrong exit and the wrong seat.

These kids, somehow, seem to care. Some of them are cocky, some of them have never performed before 3,000 fans in a season, some of them are scared and others supremely confident. Strangely enough, they mirror their coaches, who seem just as worried.

At stake: a trophy, a good word from a scout, a big or little blurp in a newspaper.

There are things in this tournament that you won't forget.

Sportsmanship, that often-used blah-blah at halftime and clinics and memorandums which, is very rarily in evidence, is rampant at the TOC, which is a surprising thing in itself when over a 100 athletes rub sharp elbows for three days.

REALLY EVIDENT

Nowhere was it more evident than last year, when Balboa of San Francisco, which had never been to the tournament in its 13-year history, lost its chance at the big prize.

The Buc coach, Oran Qualls, who seemed to have put on 10 years during the tournament, in probably his last bid for a TOC title, his heart obviously in his face as the prize eluded him, still acted like a champion.

Just before a presentation of awards, he grimly strode down the ranks of the champion Fremont bench and shook each player's hand in an emotional, quiet highlight of the tourney. And when Qualls got up to accept his second-place trophy, the entire Fremont bench stood up and applauded in reciprocation.

STICK IN MIND

There were other scenes less dramatic, small bits that stuck in the mind.

The Drake High cheerleaders, who came, it seemed, from at least five miles out in the other end of the arena to accept a third cheering section trophy, while the crowd tittered during the long wait.

There was Phil Chenier, the Berkeley super-player considered the class of the tournament, having the worst night a player can have in his team's upset loss to Balboa in the semi-finals. Chenier, throwing passes away from out of bounds, missing his graceful jumper, was a study in frustration as his coach yanked him late in the game.

HE CAME BACK

But like the class player he was, Chenier came back to score 30 points and almost single-handedly demolished courageous Drake in the third-place battle.

There will be moments like this in this year's tournaments. They, and hundreds like them throughout the year, make high school sports worth it for anybody.

Clay Supports Olympic Boycott

BRIDGEPORT, Conn. (AP) — Muhammad Ali, former world heavyweight boxing champion known as Cassius Clay, said Tuesday he supported Negro athletes who urged black contenders not to represent the United States in future Olympic games.

Ali, who won the light heavyweight championship in the 1960 Olympics, denounced athletic medals and those "from wars, too."

"I have a gold medal," he said. "It doesn't mean anything."

Ali, who spoke at a church meeting sponsored by the local Muslim mosque, currently is fighting a federal prison sentence after his conviction on charges of refusing military induction.

Parker To Stick To Right Side

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP)—As matters stood today Wes Parker, the Los Angeles Dodgers' stylish first baseman, will stick to hitting right-handed and forget about returning to switch hitting.

Parker, starting his fifth season with the Dodgers, announced before the club came to Dodgertown that he would swing from the right side of the plate exclusively.

Thus far "the great experiment" as he calls it has been successful. In six times at bat in two intrasquad games, Wes has banged out three triples and a single and all were against right-hand-pitchers.

BOWLING TIPS

By MARIAN LADEWIG

It is possible to over-concentrate. When you are getting ready to deliver a bowling ball you certainly should be thinking about nothing else, but it is harmful to become so intent that your muscles become tense. Take it easy. As you have heard a thousand times, it's only a game. Try taking a deep breath just before you start your approach and then push the ball away with an easy motion as you start walking toward the pins.

The Game Just Isn't Respectable With Spitter

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — The spitball, that poor relation of the fast ball and distant cousin of the slider, turns up every year in Florida, an unwelcome guest in baseball training camps to all but the few pitchers who know how to throw it.

This year, the baseball rules committee has pinned another penalty on pitchers caught using the slippery pitch, declared illegal in 1920.

The rule prohibits a pitcher from putting his hand to his mouth and stipulates that after one warning a pitcher will be ejected from the game.

CHANGE

Last season, pitchers were allowed to go to their mouths as long as they wiped their hands off on their uniforms.

Cal Hubbard, chief of American League umpires, has said he doubts the rule can be enforced.

"I just don't think umpires are going to be putting a pitcher out of a game because he goes to his mouth," says Hubbard.

Rick Ferrell, a Detroit Tigers' vice president and a member of the rules committee, says the pitch should remain outlawed and the rule enforced.

FEWER .300 HITTERS

"Strikeouts keep climbing every year and there are fewer and fewer .300 hitters," argues Ferrell, a former American League All-Star catcher who caught and batted against the pitch.

"Why give the pitcher another weapon?" he asks. Ferrell says with cooperation among umpires and managers, the pitch could be eliminated from baseball.

"The rule states no foreign substance can be applied to the ball," says Ferrell. "It's been in the rule book 48 years.

"If the pitch were legalized, every Little League and sandlot pitcher in the country would be trying to throw it because they copy every thing the big-leaguers do. It's unsanitary and degrading to baseball.

"After the Black Sox scandal in 1920, the spitter, the emery ball and all those trick pitches were banned in order to clean up the game," recalls Ferrell. "The idea was to eliminate all the gambling and cheating and make the game respectable.

"A few pitchers, like Burleigh Grimes and Red Faber, were allowed to continue throwing the pitch until their careers ended. But it was illegal for anyone else to use it."

Since the original ban, the spitball has slipped back into the game, carrying with it an unending controversy.

The pitch, difficult to master and control, slides off the fingers, slowing the rotation of the ball. It generally sinks away from the batter. A pitcher loads up for the pitch by spitting on the first two fingers of his pitching hand.

Water and sweat are not considered thick enough to load up the ball, but vaseline or similar substances serve the same purpose.

There are few good spitball pitchers in the American League but the National League reportedly has several very fine spitballers. Dennis Ribant, acquired by the Tigers in a trade with the Pittsburgh Pirates this winter, is among those accused of throwing the spitter.

"I think the new rule would be 97 per cent effective," said Ribant, who denies throwing the pitch.

Ferrell says pitchers who employ the illegal pitch are nothing like those who toed the mound in his day. "In those days, the spitball pitchers didn't try to hide the pitch like they do today," said Ferrell.

"You could see the saliva flying off the ball as it came to the plate and the spitball pitcher's glove would be soaked halfway through the game."

Doubleton Ace In East's Hand Can Make A Three Notrump Bid

Earlier in the week we went back 14 years to see how an expert muffed a simple safety play in a world championship. We didn't have to look so far and so hard. Experts miss simple plays all the time.

FALLS FROM GRACE

When today's hand was played in the match between Norway and Great Britain in the 1967 European Team Championships, declarer won the first trick with the king of clubs and led a spade to dummy's queen. So far, so good.

Declarer fell from grace when he returned a spade from dummy, losing the king to West's ace. Back came a club to the ace.

South led a diamond to dummy's king and returned a heart to the queen. Then he led another heart, losing dummy's king to the ace. The defenders took their two club tricks and then East returned a spade to dummy's jack. South had two tricks in each suit and needed a 3-3 break in either spades or hearts. When neither suit broke favorably he was down one.

SIMPLE PLAY

Of course, you have seen the simple play that brings the contract home. When dummy's queen holds the first spade trick the odds are very high that West has the ace. Declarer should plan to lead spades again from his own hand.

To get to his own hand, declarer leads a low heart from dummy to his own queen. Now he leads another low spade. West is obliged to play the ace, and declarer still has his own king and dummy's jack, making three spade tricks instead of only two.

SUIT BREAK

South can make three tricks in either major suit by leading low cards twice toward the hand with two honors. This works not only if the suit breaks 3-3 but also if second-hand has the doubleton ace.

This play is well known both in Norway and in Great Britain. Experts miss plays that they know as well as plays that they don't know.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with 1-notrump (16 to 18 points), and the next player bids two hearts.

You hold:
♠ A 5
♦ Q 7 4
♣ J 7 5 3

What do you say?

Answer: Double, unless your opponent is famous for his conservative bidding. Your side has more high cards and more trumps than the other side; you should be able to beat two hearts, and you may collect a very sizable penalty.

ALMANAC

Today is Thursday, March 7, the 67th day of 1968 with 299 to follow.

The moon is in its first quarter. The morning star is Venus. The evening stars are Mars and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1932 some 3,000 men rioted for jobs at the Detroit plant of Ford Motor Co. In Detroit, in the midst of the depression. Four were killed.

In 1936 Adolf Hitler ordered his Nazi troops into the Rhineland, breaking the Treaty of Versailles.

In 1945 the first Army crossed the Rhine river at Remagen, south of Cologne, Germany.

In 1965, police broke up a Negro protest march in Selma, Ala. Forty marchers were injured.

A thought for the day: Lawyer Robert G. Ingersoll said, "few rich men own their own property, the property owns them."

Stocks Fluctuate As Market Holds Steady

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market closed mixed today after an up-and-down session.

Profit taking among the high-priced computer, conglomerate and other growth stocks was combined with another rally in gold mining issues.

The market was higher in early morning as if followed through on Wednesday's technical rally, subsided under profit taking and then firmed.

Glamor stocks were subjected to some severe profit taking on their technical rally of Wednesday which stretched into early trading today. Then buying support crept in and cut losses.

Gains still held a small advantage over losers and the Dow Jones industrial average cut a loss to an insignificant figure.

Glamour stocks were shaken down sharply in early profit taking and still showed losses late in the session. Gold mining stocks rallied again as the British pound fluctuated in London and other monetary reports drew fresh buying to this group.

Occidental Petroleum, up 1, paced the list on activity by a wide margin following reports of a new oil and gas discovery.

Glamour stocks in the computer, conglomerate and other growth fields were unloaded in precautionary selling by traders.

Itek and Polaroid dropped a couple of points.

On the American Stock Exchange, prices were mixed.

Credit Eli Whitney With Creating Standards Board

By JOHN CUNNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — The relationship is a bit remote perhaps, but Eli Whitney, inventor of the cotton gin and manufacturer of firearms, was credited recently with helping to lessen the abrasions suffered by a person who walked into a door.

The door was glass, and as the near-sighted individual smacked into it, believing of course that he was walking through nothing thicker than air, it shivered and bent and cracked—but it did not crash into guillotine-like shards.

This individual was fortunate, for many of the glass doors and walls installed in recent years will shatter into deadly spears capable of impaling the body or severing arteries. Or else they may not give at all, which is severe on noses and knees.

This door, however, was shatterproof and resilient, and so the individual did not become one of the 100,000 casualties a year of glass doors and panels. But why the thanks to Eli Whitney?

In the early 1800s Whitney demonstrated that if the separate parts of rifles were made to standard dimensions, they could be used interchangeably. And so he is credited with being the father of American Industrial Standards.

Standards mean simply that products are made to certain specifications of weight, materials, size, safety, performance and so on. They may refer to dimensions, performance, terminology, classification.

In recent months standards of safety for glass doors and panels have been established by the United States of America Standards Institute, and now states and cities are writing them into their codes. Glass will be safer.

The institute, a nonprofit organization of more than 2,000 companies and trade, professional, technical and consumer groups, now has established 2,800 standards for manufactured products, the result of agreements among makers, sellers and users.

Adherence is voluntary. Standards do not have to be followed until they are written into law by a governmental unit, but mavericks might have a bad time. Failure to observe the glass panel standards leaves a manufacturer more liable to a legal suit and a damaging award to an injured person.

Insurance Firm Plans Conversion

Directors of the Title Insurance and Trust Co. have announced a plan to change the company name of the TI Corp. of California and convert it into a general business corporation.

The proposal will be submitted to shareholders of the company for approval. Under the plan the present name, Title Insurance and Trust Co., will be adopted by a subsidiary which will carry on the title insurance and trust business of the company without interruption. National title insurance operations will be carried on by two other subsidiaries, Pioneer National Title Insurance Co. and the Title Guarantee Co. of New York.

Two other subsidiaries, Realty Tax and Service Co. and Cascade Microfilm C., will continue their operations in the western states. Jeffries Banknote Co., another subsidiary, will remain in the field of securities printing, financial printing and color lithography.

Directors have also announced their intention to declare a six-for-five stock split in the form of a 20 per cent stock dividend and to set the quarterly dividend rate at 35 cents per share, increasing the current dividend rate by 5 per cent.

The stated purpose of the change in the corporate stucture is to permit greater flexibility in insurance, financial and other fields not presently open to the company.

ROBERT W. ALVARADO
Awarded Bronze Star

Marin GI Gets Second Viet Medal

A 21-year-old San Rafael serviceman, winner of the Purple Heart during his first year in Vietnam, returned for further action and has now won a medal for gallantry under fire.

Army Sp/4 Robert W. Alvarado of 724 Las Colindas Road was awarded the Gallantry Cross with Bronze Star while serving with the 101st Airborne Division in the Quang Tin area from Aug. 11 through 26 last year, the Army reported.

In the citation, Alvarado was described as "a courageous fire team leader and highly spirited soldier."

He showed calmness and courage in leading his fire team in the destruction of the fortified enemy, causing heavy casualties.

Alvarado, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Alvarado, joined the Army from Terra Linda High School. His father is former manager of San Rafael Chamber of Commerce.

Although slightly wounded during his first tour of duty in Vietnam, Alvarado elected to return to the fighting zone, said his mother.

He has a brother, Michael, serving in Vietnam as a helicopter pilot and a younger brother, James, a senior at Terra Linda High School.

$180 Stolen From Teacher's Wallet

Someone took $180 in cash from a wallet in her purse between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. Tuesday, Carla Jane Nuernberger of 65 Stanford Court, Novato, a first grade teacher at Pleasant Valley School, reported Tuesday to police.

She said that she had the money when she went to school. She left her purse in the classroom when she went out with the children for morning and afternoon recess, she said. She discovered the money was missing when she went shopping after school, she said.

Apartment Owner Says Lack Of Welfare Rental Evidence

A San Rafael apartment owner, who implied in a front page newspaper advertisement that welfare recipients are being advised not to pay their rent, reported yesterday he does not have enough concrete evidence to take his complaint to the Marin County Grand Jury.

R. L. Bourne of 1724 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael, published an advertisement last Friday, asking property owners this question: "Have you reason to believe that welfare department personnel have advised your tenants not to pay their rent after once becoming delinquent? If you have encountered this, please contact us and give the details."

Bourne reported yesterday he got about eight responses to the advertisement. "But unfortunately, we have nothing concrete. I'll have to do much more investigating before I can take it to the grand jury."

Bourne said the most recent case he experienced was in his Elm Drive apartment in Novato. A woman welfare recipient, who became delinquent in rent, was given notice of eviction. According to Bourne, the woman said she had been advised by the welfare department "not to pay rent and just sit tight."

She has since moved out, but still has not returned the key, Bourne declared.

"The amount of rental is not important," said Bourne. "Our main gripe is that if the welfare department is giving such advice, it is doing nothing but harrassing property owners."

Donald Sanford, administrative services officer for the Marin County Department of Public Social Services, reported he knows of no such advice being given to any welfare recipient by any social worker or staff member.

"If there were any such statement made by a social worker, it would be a breach of agency policy and would be, in addition, bad social work," said Sanford. "Encouraging families to become self-supporting involves meeting their bills. So we're very interested in working with people on public assistance to be sure that bills are paid."

Change Stolen

Twenty dollars in change was taken last night in a burglary of the Shell service station at Bridgeway and Caledonia Street, Sausalito police reported today. Entry was through a rear window.

Smog Board Revives Backyard Controversy

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO—Bay Area Air Pollution Control District directors agreed yesterday to revive a proposal to ban backyard burning in the six-county district, which includes Marin.

The board did not go so far as to vote to impose the ban, but agreed that first public hearings on the ban should be held in each of the counties. Marin's two directors on the board, Supervisor William A. Gnoss and San Anselmo Mayor Arthur W. Smith, said they will hold a hearing at the Civic Center, but set no date.

Backyard burning contributes an average of 920 tons a day of air pollutants, according to the district staff. This is about 9 per cent of the total Bay Area pollutants, including those produced by all motor vehicles.

The ban would not include barbecues, a district spokesman reported.

Backyard burning has been banned in Los Angeles for 12 years, the district staff noted.

The board also voted to oppose legislation to exempt from control campfires, backyard burning and agricultural burning. The bill (SB 209), has been introduced by Sens. Clark L. Bradley, R-San Jose, and Howard Way, R-Exeter.

Hippie Mailmen

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The problem of hippie mailmen and their dress continues to be a concern of the San Francisco post office. The latest postmaster's newsletter says: "Hair (men) must be cut, or at least pinned above the earlobes . . . if difficult to ascertain by visual inspection, employees' sex can always be obtained from their affidavit in personnel folder."

The American victim was identified as Michael Douglas Reed, last address Maennedorf, Swintzerland, Neuhofstrasse 7.

Civil Rights Changes Nearing End Of Road

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Powerless to stop a surging demand for a federal crackdown on ghetto violence, a bipartisan coalition in the Senate today found itself backing a compromise civil rights bill laden with antiriot amendments.

Despite serious misgivings about the antiriot measures, the managers of the bill compensated for their setbacks by keeping inact their main goal —a broad ban on housing discrimination.

The Senate moved into its fourth day of voting on amendments to the compromise with some indication that the end was approaching.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, Mont., hoped that all would be disposed of before nightfall.

Once the Senate accepts the amended compromise, the bill could still face a Southern filibuster. Because of the parliamentary situation, it could take a second — very shaky — cloture vote to achieve final passage.

In the face of predictions that the nation faces another summer of urban riots, the Senate reacted in strange ways yesterday.

It overwhelmingly rejected some antiriot provisions and by almost as heavy a margin accepted others. Liberals, conservatives, and Southerners marched side by side.

It rejected a call to "do something about Stokely Carmichael and Rap Brown" and just as blithely ignored warnings it was creating a national police force.

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., squared off against his younger brother Sen. Edward, D-Mass., on an amendment which would have made it a federal crime to commit "any unlawful act of violence" in support of a riot.

Kennedy the younger said it would allow the federal government to move into every city and community. His brother said the amendment would be a "landmark" allowing federal officials to intervene in civil rights cases where none could go before.

Woman Wins Again On Old Ticket

SAN MATEO (UPI) — A San Mateo woman was two points ahead today in her legal battle with county officials over her arrest April 6, 1967, on an unpaid $10 traffic ticket.

Mrs. Dorothy Paddleford, 42, won her second court victory yesterday when Municipal Judge Thomas Caldwell dismissed the year-old ticket on a technicality. Still pending are two civil suits asking $1.5 million in damages which she filed against county officials.

Two weeks ago Mrs. Paddleford was acquitted by a jury on charges of resisting arrest when Superior Judge William Savage ruled the traffic warrant carried by the arresting officers was illegal. It carried only the stamped signature of Municipal Judge Marcel Biscay.

Mrs. Paddleford was arrested at her home about 10:15 p.m. Her attorney, Marvin Lewis of San Francisco, claimed this was illegal because state law holds misdemeanor warrants must be acted on in daylight.

Meanwhile, Lewis has asked $1 million in damages in U.S. District Court against Judge Biscay, San Mateo County Sheriff Earl B. Whitmore and two arresting deputies and three court clerks.

In San Mateo County Superior Courts, Lewis has asked $550,000 for false arrest.

Squadron Getting New Transports

The 4435th Air Transportation Squadron at Hamilton Air Force base is replacing its present aircraft with three Convair C131 Samaritans, according to its commander, Lt. Col. Jack W. Wheeler.

The squadron has received one of the planes to replace a Lockheed C121 Constellation. It exepcts the other two in July to replace another Constellation and one Convair T29.

The squadron of 15 officers and 41 enlisted men, flies special air missions for transporting military personnel.

NEW FIGHTER IN VIETNAM

The snub-nosed A7A Corsair II, a new Navy workhorse attack plane which literally carries its own weight in bombs and missiles, has been added to the U.S. campaign in Vietnam. Viet Veterans Get Tax Break

Veterans of the war in Vietnam are now elegible for veterans tax exemption, under the new law that went into effect last November, Assessor Bert W. Broemmel reminded veterans today.

Until last year, Vietnam veterans were not eligible for the tax exemption on $1,000 of assessed valuation that other veterans receive. Eligibility for any veteran depends on the amount of cash and property he owns.

The assessor said that Vietnam veterans who believe they qualify for exemption should file for exemption with his office by April 15 this year.

Tax Worker Indicted In Report Sales

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Mrs. Evelyn T. Morris, a former clerk of the California Franchise Tax Board, was indicted by the federal grand jury yesterday for selling copies of federal income tax returns.

Tax returns, often containing information of value to other persons, are supposed to be kept confidential. Mrs. Morris had access to federal returns and was accused of making photocopies which she could easily remove.

The indictment charged in six counts that Mrs. Morris had sold the returns of three couples for sums of up to $100. The purchaser named in the indictment was an IRS investigator.

U.S. Atty. Cecil Poole declined to explain what prompted the investigation or to describe the extent of the alleged return selling activity of Mrs. Morris.

Sausalito Planners Favor Changes In Voting Rules

The Sausalito Planning Commission last night recommended a rules change to make it easier for the commission to make binding decisions.

The commission asked the city council to approve an amendment so decisions could be made by a majority of commissioners present at a meeting. Under present rules a majority of the nine-member commission is required, no matter how many are present.

Combined with the council's action Tuesday to reduce the commission to five members, the changes would mean two members of a three-member quorum would be able to act.

Several applications for planning matters have been delayed in recent months because absenteeism and split votes prevented five-vote decisions.

The Sausalito Planning Commission also:

ZACK'S — Approved a variance sought by Sam Zakessian to add a facade and a 145-square-foot enclosed storage area at Zack's restaurant, Bridgeway and Turney Street.

BALCONY — Approved a variance to allow Lindol R. French to build a balcony and roof extending into side yard setbacks at 98 San Carlos Avenue.

RECONSTRUCTION — Approved a variance allowing Terry DeLuke to rebuild a dwelling unit at 503 Easterby Street.

ADDITION — Approved a variance to allow Mrs. G. Claire Krohn and Mrs. Kathe I. I. Thayer to exceed permitted lot coverage for an addition to a duplex at 804 Spring Street.
